British Say Mission Has Not Failed

Foreign Office Gives Formal Denial; Situation Viewed Extremely Delicate

London, Jan. 12 (AP)—The British Foreign Office endorsed today the statement of a United Nations spokesman that Dag Hammarskjold has not failed on his Peiping mission.

The foreign office issued a formal denial of a published report that quoted diplomatic sources in London as saying the UN secretary general's mission to free 11 American fliers jailed in Red China as spies apparently had failed.

A spokesman read out this statement at a news conference:

"I should like to endorse the comment made yesterday by a spokesman of the United Nations on an agency (United Press) report about Mr. Hammarskjold's mission to Peiping. That report was not an accurate reproduction of the impression which prevails in London of the result of the secretary general's visit. We have no reason to believe that the secretary general has failed and though no immediate results, which were not in any case to be expected, appear to have followed on his visit, the contacts he has created are to be maintained."

BRITAIN HAS RECEIVED regular reports on the progress of Hammarskjold's Peiping talks. The reports came from her charge d'affaires in Peiping, Humphrey Trevelyan. However, Trevelyan's contacts with Hammarskjold were said to have been informal and limited.

The British statement today came in an unusual way which emphasized what the government here regards as the extreme delicacy of the situation. Normally, the foreign office would deny a report such as the one published abroad yesterday only if asked specifically by a newsman to comment on it. Today's statement was entirely voluntary.

Wicks Offers Bill For Road Link

Senator Arthur H. Wicks has introduced in the Senate a bill providing for the construction by the State Department of Public works of a connecting highway from the west end of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge to the 9W Highway.

Under the provisions of the bill sponsored by Senator Wicks this new highway would extend the connecting link to the west end of the bridge to the 9W Highway from Route 32 and would be under the jurisdiction of the New York State Department of Public Works.

FURTHER EXTENSION of the proposed highway to the Thruway would be a matter for determination by the New York State Thruway Authority.

Extension of a highway from Route 32 to 9W is deemed necessary to avoid a serious bottleneck. The State Bridge Authority has expressed a desire for assurance from the State Department of Public Works that a connection between the bridge and Route 9W would be provided.

City Will Open 2 Skating Rinks

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced that the city now has two new skating facilities, which are to be officially opened to the public tonight.

Peter Strubel, owner of Strubel's rink, off Albany avenue, and Richard Schults, owner of the Kingman Park property (formerly Waters' pond) off Lawrence street in the downtown area, have granted permission for use of the properties, and the mayor and other officials recently acted to develop them for skating.

THE RINK back of the high school was abandoned and facilities from there were moved to Kingman Park. Both rinks are due to open at 6:30 p. m. today.

Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent and Andrew J. Murphy, 3rd, assisted in development of the facilities, and Mayor Stang notes that maintenance of the two rinks "is no more costly" than operating the one behind the high school, and "much more skating will be enjoyed."

THE RINKS are to be open to the public, under present schedule, from 3:15 p. m., to 5:30 p. m., and from 6:30 to 10 p. m. during week days; from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., Saturdays, and 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., Sundays.

An attendant will be present in the building or on the rinks at all times when they are open to the public, and one will be present at 2:15 p. m., daily as an accommodation to parents with small children, who might want to use the rinks at that time. Use of the rinks will be restricted from 2:15 to 3:15 p. m., daily, to all but the younger children and their parents.

Mayor Stang said it may become necessary for the recreation department to close the rinks on afternoons when the sun is high, and the weather warm, "in order to preserve the ice and make skating conditions better in the evenings."

"THE ICE on both rinks will will be scraped and resurfaced from time to time so that its skating surface will be as near perfect as possible," the mayor said.

Both rinks will have "warm buildings where skaters may change their shoes or skates, and when the rinks are officially opened a PA system will play the latest waltzes and popular music."

The mayor said he "invites all to make use of the facilities."

236 Permits Are Given for Projects

S. Burrell Schwarzwaelder, superintendent of buildings, today reported issuing 236 building permits during the existence of the city's new building department from July 22 to Jan. 1.

This represented a total estimated cost of $558,346, and of the total 105 permits were issued for oil burners at a total estimated cost of $70,000. Forty permits were issued for additions to buildings at $127,092, 35 for new buildings at $319,400, and 28 for fire escapes at $18,436.

OTHER PERMITS included 13 for garages at $14,040, nine for gas burners at $4,487, three for plumbing fixtures at $2,978 and three for gas pumps and tanks at $1,650.

Last month 27 permits were issued at a total estimated cost of $65,975. This was $70,870 under the total in November when 46 permits were issued at a total estimated cost of $136,845.

Of the total permits issued last month, nine were for oil burners at $11,530, five for new buildings at $39,100, two for additions to buildings at $10,000, and seven for fire escapes at $3,850.

15 Dead In Crash Of Craft

Mid-Air Crackup Is Near Cincinnati

Burlington, Ky., Jan. 12 (AP)—Fifteen persons were believed to have been killed today in a mid-air crash between two large airplanes several miles southwest of Cincinnati.

One plane was a Trans World Airlines ship en route to Dayton and Cleveland. The other plane was not identified immediately, but was believed to be carrying two persons.

TWA identified the crew members as Capt. J. W. Quinn, Belleville, Mich.; R. Childress, co-pilot, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Miss Pat Sterner, hostess, Ypsilanti, Mich.

THE OTHER PLANE, a Douglas DC-3 bearing serial number N-999-B was understood to have taken off from Battle Creek, Mich., with Pilot Arthur (Slim) Werkhaven, Sturgis, Mich., and Co-pilot Edward Agner, Battle Creek, aboard. The information came in a telephone call to the airport at Battle Creek.

Also reported aboard the TWA plane was Robert Sobul, about 38, Columbus, Ohio, district manager for Swank Jewelry Inc.

Paul D. Strahm, Columbus, TWA passenger representative, said it was the first domestic accident experienced by TWA airliners since Dec. 1, 1944.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority control tower at the greater Cincinnati Airport said it had no knowledge there was any plane other than the TWA within miles of the area.

"AS FAR AS WE KNEW the TWA plane was the only one in the area," the tower operator stated. "We had no culls or flight plan to indicate any other plane was within miles."

The planes fell two miles apart, according to John Hedrick, operator of a flying service. One of the first men to fly over the scene, he said he doubted there were any survivors.

He said he saw bodies lying about a 200 yard area.

Later at Battle Creeck, Mich., the National Carbon Coated Paper Co. of Sturgis, Mich., identified the DC-3 as a plane belonging to that firm which took off at 7 a. m. (EST) from Battle Creek.

THE PLANE was headed for Lexington, Ky., to pick up Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Van Lennep, wealthy Detroit race horse owners. Mrs. Van Lennep, the former Frances Dodge, is an officer in the firm which owned the plane.

The plane then was scheduled to carry the Van Lenneps to Del Ray, Florida.

Both Werkhaven and Agner are married and each has two children. They were employed as test pilots on bombers produced at Willow Run Airport outside Detroit during World War 2.

Plane Downed After Attack on San Jose Area

WHERE REBELS REPORTED IN COSTA RICA—Map locates Villa Quesada (underlined), 40 miles from Nicaraguan border, where, according to charges in Costa Rica, a small force of rebels — presumably from Nicaragua — landed in light planes and seized the town Tuesday. Villa Quesada, a town of about 3,500, is at the upper end of a 50-mile highway which leads southeast to San Jose (underlined), capital of Costa Rica. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Shots Fired In Section Of Houses

Craft Reported To Be Nicaraguan

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 12 (AP)—An air raider described as "a Venezuelan pursuit plane which came from Nicaragua" machinegunned San Jose today and then was shot down by antiaircraft fire, the civil guard announced.

The raider, which looked like the American-built P47 Thunderbolt of World War 2 vintage, buzzed the downtown area of this capital city and loosed machinegun bursts at a residential sector. This came as government troops battled in the north to clear a rebel band from the Villa Quesada area, about midway between San Jose and the Costa Rican-Nicaragua frontier.

Three bursts were aimed into the section surrounding the Costa Rican White House, the home of Presdient Jose Figueres.

THE PLANE WAS climbing rapidly as it passed the San Jose airport control tower. A lumbering DC3 of the Lacsa Airlines, armed with machineguns in its side doors, took off in pursuit.

A civil guard communique said the raider was downed by antiaircraft artillery and fell on a river called Los Ahogados (The Drowned) near Liberia, a town of 3,500 about 100 miles northwest of San Jose.

Though the plane approached San Jose from the south, the command said it came from a Nicaraguan airfield.

"THE COMMAND recommends that the inhabitants remain at home and keep calm," it said, "because the antiaircraft defenders will give a good account of attacking planes, knocking them down just as was done in Liberia."

Costa Rica's delegate to the UN was informed from San Jose that invading forces captured two small port cities on the Pacific coast. The delegate, Ambassador Benjamin Nunez, identified the cities as Puerto Soley, near the Nicaraguan border, and Puerto Cortez, in the southern part of Costa Rica. He said also invading planes had machinegunned Turrialba andCartago.)

Costa Rican troops launched an attack at dawn upon the armed band which seized the Villa Quesada area yesterday. There were unconfirmed reports—one brought in by a government plane from the front—that the troops had regained the town after a battle of less than three hours. The command headquarters, however, refused confirmation and said the action was continuing.

COSTA RICA, lacking an air force, was using a Cessna for observation and requisition Lacsa transports for combined machinegun and small arms fire against the foe at Villa Quesada.

The pilot of the DC3 which rose to challenge the strike at San Jose landed angry and chagrined because the fighter had kept going north instead of returning for a second pass. Many streets in the area cleared quickly, but in others people rushed outdoors to scan the sky.

Earlier primary interest had centered on Villa Quesada.

The Costa Rican command announced the rebel force — variously estimated between 40 and 100 men—was outgunned and withdrawing slowly to the heart of the town under assault of troops bolstered by ammunition flown in by Costa Rica

2 Women Plead To Conspiracy

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Two Bronx women pleaded guilty today to a charge they conspired to have the husband of one killed by a taxicab for his insurance and so they could file a $100,000 damage suit.

MRS. PATRICIA RICCO, 30, whose husband steadfastly had expressed confidence she was not involved in the plot, and Media Rainey, 25, admitted their guilt before Justice Doris I. Byrne in Bronx Special Sessions.

Sentencing was set for Feb. 2. Each woman could receive a term up to three years. The charge is a misdemeanor.

MRS. ANN SABELLA, 27, a third defendant now free in $1,000 bail on a similar charge, also will appear before Byrne on Feb. 2. Her case was not called today because her attorney is ill.

A grand jury information charged the women conspired to have Mrs. Ricco's husband, James, 40, run down and killed by a taxicab and to have it appear it was an accident.

They allegedly contacted a taxicab driver to carry out the plan with the intention of not only collecting Ricco's insurance, estimated at $3,000, but of suing the taxicab company for damages.

Fred Bezer, the driver, notified police of the plot and the women were arrested a few days before the intended slaying.

THE INTENDED victim appeared shocked by his wife's plea and had no comment to reporters after the courtroom scene.

When Mrs. Ricco and Miss Rainey were taken to the courtroom, they were placed in the jury box for a short time until their case was called.

Ricco, sitting in a second row spectators' seat, received a smile from his wife and jumped up, clutching a crucifix. Friends on each side literally pulled him back to the seat, where he remained. He said later that the

JUDGE MYERS adjourned the hearing until 5 p. m. Monday, Jan. 17. Nolan was released in

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Congress seemed in a mood today not only to give a prompt pay raise to 1½ million federal employes, but also to boost substantially its own salaries.

But a companion administration proposal to increase postage rates met reserve and outright opposition.

President Eisenhower sent to the Capitol yesterday special messages urging 5 per cent pay hikes totaling about 339 million dollars annually for one million civil service workers and 500,000 postal employes. He also called for increases in rates charged for first, second and third class mail to help offset the added postal pay costs.

Leaders in both Senate and House said they would vote an early federal pay raise.

Hoffman Heads Local Red Cross

The resignation of Gustav J. Kramer, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American National Red Cross, was received and accepted with regret Tuesday evening at a meeting of the local executive committee.

Kramer, who had served since July, 1954, is unable to continue in the post, due to absence from this city.

Frederick Hoffman, 143 Fair street, this city, who is vice president of The Freeman Publishing Company, was named to fill the unexpired term. Hoffman's election followed the recommendation of a nominating committee headed by Harry Gold.

Walter T. Tremper, who has served as chairman of the local disaster committee, was elected first vice chairman to succeed Edward C. Craig.

FOUR VACANCIES on the board of directors were also filled on recommendation by the nominating committee. Mrs. George Brown of Hurley was elected to fill the term of Elbert D. Ackerman, deceased; Mrs. Fred Schwenk was named to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Roger Billings, resigned; Mrs. William Fuller was named to fill the term of Edward C. Craig of Stone Ridge who resigned from the board due to business pressure and Francis H. Law was elected to succeed W. Elliott Whiney who has been transferred from this area.

HarrimanMustShowProof, GOP Says, Cash Is Needed

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Republicans insist Gov. Harriman will have to convince them that present state programs require well over 50 million dollars more spending in 1955-56.

GOP sources said yesterday that the Democratic governor had invited help from the Republican majority leaders of the Legislature in figuring out how to balance his forthcoming budget.

But the Republicans refused to commit themselves until they could study the budget for themselves and check it for possible economies, the informants said.

The GOP leaders were described as challenging the governor to make good on what they consider a campaign promise by him to trim state spending and avoid tax increases.

However, there was no certain indication that Harriman would propose any higher taxes. A Democratic source said the administration was just buckling down to the task of hammering out its tax policy.

The informants on both sides did not wish to be identified.

The reports came in the wake of a luncheon at the executive mansion yesterday, where Harriman consulted with legislative leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Those present were Senate leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, Republicans, and Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, the Democratic leaders.

President Says FOA Has Responsibility in Case

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has reached no judgment personally in the Wolf Ladejinsky case, and that Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen must take full responsibility for whatever is the eventual outcome of keeping Ladejinsky in government service.

The President discussed the controversial security case at his news conference and emphasized that he had only one side of the story when he once remarked to Secretary of Agriculture Benson that Ladejinsky's background was the sort that would scare him.

BUT EISENHOWER said he upholds the decision by Stassen to hire Ladejinsky despite the Agriculture Department's ousting of the man on security and technical grounds.

Ladejinsky, 55-year-old Russian-born naturalized American became agricultural attache in Tokyo as a State Department employe.

Benson refused on security and technical grounds, to accept Ladejinsky when a new law transferred jurisdiction over agricultural attaches to Benson's department.

Stassen's organization then hired Ladejinsky for a land reform job in Communist-threatened Viet Nam. Ladejinsky previously had been cleared twice under the State Department's security program.

IN DISCUSSING the case, Eisenhower said Benson came to him and read him a summary. After hearing it, Eisenhower said, he had some doubt as to whether Ladejinsky should be given security clearance. The President stressed, however, that he did not know what he called the other side of the story.

For example, he added, he didn't know Ladejinsky is the author of an anti-Communist book.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference since Dec. 15, and the discussion ranged over many topics. They included:

NIXON — Eisenhower praised Vice President Nixon who is under fire from Democrats for his campaign tactics. The President said Nixon is loyal and patriotic, and has assured him that Nixon never made any sweeping condemnation of any political party during the 1954 Congressional campaign.

Eisenhower said Nixon had raised questions about the judgment of individuals..

He certainly believes in the loyalty and patriotism of Nixon and admires him, the President added.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS —Eisenhower said he personally believes it would be a good idea to shorten the 1956 Presidential campaign, as now planned by the Republican National Committee. Instead of holding the National Party Convention in

Medical Officers Blamed $389,000 Pill Deterioration

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—House investigators charged today that "loose handling" and disagreement among American medical officials left 12 million faulty anti-hookworm pills "deteriorating in warehouses in Indochina."

But a Foreign Operations Administration spokesman — informed of the charges—said the pills are being put to good use in Indochina and Formosa. He termed the investigation "fair" and said it had brought out how government buying procedures resulted in a $389,000 purchase of inadequately coated drugs.

The report was issued by a House government operations subcommittee which last June looked into an FOA program aimed at fighting roundworm and hookworm in Indochina, now split into Communist and non-Communist areas. The pill matter was explored in at least one public hearing.

An estimated 80 per cent of Indochina's population suffers from these worm diseases. In 1951, FOA decided to rush orders for 15 million pills to combat the infections.

The report said that when the pills arrived in 1952 they had an

Wicks Offers Bill For Road Link

Senator Arthur H. Wicks has introduced in the Senate a bill providing for the construction by the State Department of Public works of a connecting highway from the west end of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge to the 9W Highway.

Under the provisions of the bill sponsored by Senator Wicks this new highway would extend the connecting link to the west end of the bridge to the 9W Highway from Route 32 and would be under the jurisdiction of the New York State Department of Public Works.

FURTHER EXTENSION of the proposed highway to the Thruway would be a matter for determination by the New York State Thruway Authority.

The plane then was scheduled to carry the Van Lenneps to Del Ray, Florida.

Both Werkhaven and Agner are married and each has two children. They were employed as test pilots on bombers produced at Willow Run Airport outside Detroit during World War 2.

Plane Downed After Attack on San Jose Area

WHERE REBELS REPORTED IN COSTA RICA—Map locates Villa Quesada (underlined), 40 miles from Nicaraguan border, where, according to charges in Costa Rica, a small force of rebels — presumably from Nicaragua — landed in light planes and seized the town Tuesday. Villa Quesada, a town of about 3,500, is at the upper end of a 50-mile highway which leads southeast to San Jose (underlined), capital of Costa Rica. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Shots Fired In Section Of Houses

Craft Reported To Be Nicaraguan

San Jose, Costa Rica, Jan. 12 (AP)—An air raider described as "a Venezuelan pursuit plane which came from Nicaragua" machinegunned San Jose today and then was shot down by antiaircraft fire, the civil guard announced.

The raider, which looked like the American-built P47 Thunderbolt of World War 2 vintage, buzzed the downtown area of this capital city and loosed machinegun bursts at a residential sector. This came as government troops battled in the north to clear a rebel band from the Villa Quesada area, about midway between San Jose and the Costa Rican-Nicaragua frontier.

Three bursts were aimed into the section surrounding the Costa Rican White House, the home of Presdient Jose Figueres.

THE PLANE WAS climbing rapidly as it passed the San Jose airport control tower. A lumbering DC3 of the Lacsa Airlines, armed with machineguns in its side doors, took off in pursuit.

A civil guard communique said the raider was downed by antiaircraft artillery and fell on a river called Los Ahogados (The Drowned) near Liberia, a town of 3,500 about 100 miles northwest of San Jose.

Though the plane approached San Jose from the south, the command said it came from a Nicaraguan airfield.

"THE COMMAND recommends that the inhabitants remain at home and keep calm," it said, "because the antiaircraft defenders will give a good account of attacking planes, knocking them down just as was done in Liberia."

Costa Rica's delegate to the UN was informed from San Jose that invading forces captured two small port cities on the Pacific coast. The delegate, Ambassador Benjamin Nunez, identified the cities as Puerto Soley, near the Nicaraguan border, and Puerto Cortez, in the southern part of Costa Rica. He said also invading planes had machinegunned Turrialba andCartago.)

Costa Rican troops launched an attack at dawn upon the armed band which seized the Villa Quesada area yesterday. There were unconfirmed reports—one brought in by a government plane from the front—that the troops had regained the town after a battle of less than three hours. The command headquarters, however, refused confirmation and said the action was continuing.

COSTA RICA, lacking an air force, was using a Cessna for observation and requisition Lacsa transports for combined machinegun and small arms fire against the foe at Villa Quesada.

The pilot of the DC3 which rose to challenge the strike at San Jose landed angry and chagrined because the fighter had kept going north instead of returning for a second pass. Many streets in the area cleared quickly, but in others people rushed outdoors to scan the sky.

Earlier primary interest had centered on Villa Quesada.

The Costa Rican command announced the rebel force — variously estimated between 40 and 100 men—was outgunned and withdrawing slowly to the heart of the town under assault of troops bolstered by ammunition flown in by Costa Rica

2 Women Plead To Conspiracy

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Two Bronx women pleaded guilty today to a charge they conspired to have the husband of one killed by a taxicab for his insurance and so they could file a $100,000 damage suit.

MRS. PATRICIA RICCO, 30, whose husband steadfastly had expressed confidence she was not involved in the plot, and Media Rainey, 25, admitted their guilt before Justice Doris I. Byrne in Bronx Special Sessions.

Sentencing was set for Feb. 2. Each woman could receive a term up to three years. The charge is a misdemeanor.

MRS. ANN SABELLA, 27, a third defendant now free in $1,000 bail on a similar charge, also will appear before Byrne on Feb. 2. Her case was not called today because her attorney is ill.

A grand jury information charged the women conspired to have Mrs. Ricco's husband, James, 40, run down and killed by a taxicab and to have it appear it was an accident.

They allegedly contacted a taxicab driver to carry out the plan with the intention of not only collecting Ricco's insurance, estimated at $3,000, but of suing the taxicab company for damages.

Fred Bezer, the driver, notified police of the plot and the women were arrested a few days before the intended slaying.

THE INTENDED victim appeared shocked by his wife's plea and had no comment to reporters after the courtroom scene.

When Mrs. Ricco and Miss Rainey were taken to the courtroom, they were placed in the jury box for a short time until their case was called.

Ricco, sitting in a second row spectators' seat, received a smile from his wife and jumped up, clutching a crucifix. Friends on each side literally pulled him back to the seat, where he remained. He said later that the

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Congress seemed in a mood today not only to give a prompt pay raise to 1½ million federal employes, but also to boost substantially its own salaries.

But a companion administration proposal to increase postage rates met reserve and outright opposition.

President Eisenhower sent to the Capitol yesterday special messages urging 5 per cent pay hikes totaling about 339 million dollars annually for one million civil service workers and 500,000 postal employes. He also called for increases in rates charged for first, second and third class mail to help offset the added postal pay costs.

Leaders in both Senate and House said they would vote an early federal pay raise.

Hoffman Heads Local Red Cross

The resignation of Gustav J. Kramer, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American National Red Cross, was received and accepted with regret Tuesday evening at a meeting of the local executive committee.

Kramer, who had served since July, 1954, is unable to continue in the post, due to absence from this city.

Frederick Hoffman, 143 Fair street, this city, who is vice president of The Freeman Publishing Company, was named to fill the unexpired term. Hoffman's election followed the recommendation of a nominating committee headed by Harry Gold.

Walter T. Tremper, who has served as chairman of the local disaster committee, was elected first vice chairman to succeed Edward C. Craig.

FOUR VACANCIES on the board of directors were also filled on recommendation by the nominating committee. Mrs. George Brown of Hurley was elected to fill the term of Elbert D. Ackerman, deceased; Mrs. Fred Schwenk was named to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Roger Billings, resigned; Mrs. William Fuller was named to fill the term of Edward C. Craig of Stone Ridge who resigned from the board due to business pressure and Francis H. Law was elected to succeed W. Elliott Whitney who has been transferred from this area.

HarrimanMustShowProof, GOP Says, Cash Is Needed

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Republicans insist Gov. Harriman will have to convince them that present state programs require well over 50 million dollars more spending in 1955-56.

GOP sources said yesterday that the Democratic governor had invited help from the Republican majority leaders of the Legislature in figuring out how to balance his forthcoming budget.

But the Republicans refused to commit themselves until they could study the budget for themselves and check it for possible economies, the informants said.

The GOP leaders were described as challenging the governor to make good on what they consider a campaign promise by him to trim state spending and avoid tax increases.

However, there was no certain indication that Harriman would propose any higher taxes. A Democratic source said the administration was just buckling down to the task of hammering out its tax policy.

The informants on both sides did not wish to be identified.

The reports came in the wake of a luncheon at the executive mansion yesterday, where Harriman consulted with legislative leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Those present were Senate leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, Republicans, and Sen. Francis J. Mahoney and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan, the Democratic leaders.

President Says FOA Has Responsibility in Case

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has reached no judgment personally in the Wolf Ladejinsky case, and that Foreign Operations Administrator Harold E. Stassen must take full responsibility for whatever is the eventual outcome of keeping Ladejinsky in government service.

The President discussed the controversial security case at his news conference and emphasized that he had only one side of the story when he once remarked to Secretary of Agriculture Benson that Ladejinsky's background was the sort that would scare him.

BUT EISENHOWER said he upholds the decision by Stassen to hire Ladejinsky despite the Agriculture Department's ousting of the man on security and technical grounds.

Ladejinsky, 55-year-old Russian-born naturalized American became agricultural attache in Tokyo as a State Department employe.

Benson refused on security and technical grounds, to accept Ladejinsky when a new law transferred jurisdiction over agricultural attaches to Benson's department.

Stassen's organization then hired Ladejinsky for a land reform job in Communist-threatened Viet Nam. Ladejinsky previously had been cleared twice under the State Department's security program.

IN DISCUSSING the case, Eisenhower said Benson came to him and read him a summary. After hearing it, Eisenhower said, he had some doubt as to whether Ladejinsky should be given security clearance. The President stressed, however, that he did not know what he called the other side of the story.

For example, he added, he didn't know Ladejinsky is the author of an anti-Communist book.

This was Eisenhower's first news conference since Dec. 15, and the discussion ranged over many topics. They included:

NIXON — Eisenhower praised Vice President Nixon who is under fire from Democrats for his campaign tactics. The President said Nixon is loyal and patriotic, and has assured him that Nixon never made any sweeping condemnation of any political party during the 1954 Congressional campaign.

Eisenhower said Nixon had raised questions about the judgment of individuals.

He certainly believes in the loyalty and patriotism of Nixon and admires him, the President added.

POLITICAL CONVENTIONS —Eisenhower said he personally believes it would be a good idea to shorten the 1956 Presidential campaign, as now planned by the Republican National Committee. Instead of holding the National Party Convention in

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—House investigators charged today that "loose handling" and disagreement among American medical officials left 12 million faulty anti-hookworm pills "deteriorating in warehouses in Indochina."

But a Foreign Operations Administration spokesman — informed of the charges—said the pills are being put to good use in Indochina and Formosa. He termed the investigation "fair" and said it had brought out how government buying procedures resulted in a $389,000 purchase of inadequately coated drugs.

The report was issued by a House government operations subcommittee which last June looked into an FOA program aimed at fighting roundworm and hookworm in Indochina, now split into Communist and non-Communist areas. The pill matter was explored in at least one public hearing.

An estimated 80 per cent of Indochina's population suffers from these worm diseases. In 1951, FOA decided to rush orders for 15 million pills to combat the infections.

The report said that when the pills arrived in 1952 they had an

Rivalry to Carry Mail Is Sharp Between Carriers

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Who'll carry the mail for Uncle Sam is a multi-million-dollar question these days.

It brings to sharp focus the deadly rivalry between the railroads, on the one hand, and the airlines and trucks on the other.

The feud came to a boil in October 1953 when the post office launched an "experiment" of flying first class 3-cent mail on the New York-Chicago and Washington-Chicago routes whenever airlines had space available for it. The experiment was broadened to include Florida points and local airlines covering 125 scattered communities. This deprived rails of sizeable revenues.

THE RAILROADS got even madder when the experiment spread to include major Pacific coast cities last November.

But Postmaster General Summerfield reported last month that in the initial stage of the west coast "airlift" ordinary letters bearing 3-cent stamps had been advanced in delivery by from 24 to 48 hours.

"To date the 3-cent mail by air experiment is improving mail service at slight savings in overall cost to those formerly paid," said Summerfield.

The railroads protested that the savings were only apparent and ignored the "complete" mail service rendered by the rails. The airlines and their allies, the truckers, argued back. Thousands of words were exchanged.

THE RAILS SAY that already the experiment has wiped out most of their lucrative haulage of first class mail on the New York - Chicago - Washington routes.

The industry complains that it has invested close to a billion dollars in mail handling facilities whereas the airlines and truckers have invested nothing and the taxpayers must provide these for them.

They protest further that they are required by law—under pain of severe penalties—to carry all mail offered them and to carry it on any and all trains the post office may direct.

In contrast, say the railroads, the airlines carry 3-cent mail only on a "space available" basis—when it is not crowded out by more profitable payloads of passengers or cargo. Thus, say the rails, the airlines "skim the cream" of the mail business, leaving the railroads the "crumbs."

Railroads have challenged the legality of carrying 3-cent mail by air and have launched court actions. But the experiment goes on.

MEANWHILE, the railroads are losing more mail revenue, they say, because the post office has awarded contracts to motor carriers to carry mail on more than 550 routes.

The diversion of mail, they add, if carried to the limit, means that the railroads will suffer a potential loss of mail revenues amounting to 300 million dollars a year. This will threaten the jobs of many of the 50,000 rail employes who handle mail and compel cancellation of hundreds of passenger trains now operating near the break-even point, they say.

BUT THE AIRLINES and truckers call the rails' billion-dollar figure on mail facilities "unrealistic" and say the 300 million figure covers total mail revenues, not just first class which they assert was only 40 million dollars in 1953, or 2/5 of one per cent of all mail revenues.

They argue that, just as the railroads succeeded the canal boat and stage coach as mail carriers, the railroads themselves must give way, at least to some degree, before more modern means of transportation.

They quote Summerfield's statement to the Senate in 1953:

"We propose to utilize all available means of transportation, believing that all are important to our national economy."

Tourney Shows a Neat Game Swindle

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Today's hand produced a neat swindle at several tables when it was played in the recent Winter National Tournament in Atlanta.

When the South hand was held by Alvin Landy, a member of the quintet that won the Men's Team Championship, the bidding took the course shown in the diagram. Landy wasn't happy to bid no-trump with such a sketchy diamond holding, but he couldn't see what else to do with his rather powerful hand.

There was a fine chance that North had a little help in diamonds; and there was also the chance that the enemy would stay away from the suit.

West opened the seven of hearts, and Landy counted his tricks. Obviously he could win three heart tricks by playing low from the dummy at the first trick. But he would then have to develop the clubs to make his contract, and the opponents would surely shift to diamonds in desperation when it became clear that they could get nowhere with the hearts.

To prevent a shift to diamonds, Landy went right up with dummy's ace of hearts at the first trick. He then led the queen of clubs from the dummy and played the nine of clubs from his own hand.

The general idea was to make it safe and attractive for West to continue his heart suit and to indicate that the club suit wasn't long enough to be of much importance.

West took the second trick with the ace of clubs and wondered what to do next. It seemed to him that South had the king of diamonds but not the king of spades. Apparently South had won the first trick in dummy in order to save the king of hearts as a sure entry to the rest of his clubs.

If this were the case, it would be foolish in a tournament for West to lead diamonds and give South a trick with the king. At rubber bridge, West might get suspicious and lead a diamond, although even this isn't at all sure.

When this deceptive line of play was adopted at the Atlanta tournament, many defenders swallowed the bait. They returned the queen of hearts after taking the ace of clubs. South then had 10 sure tricks and actually won 12 tricks since West was sure to discard spades in a desperate attempt to defeat the contract.

The general idea was to make it safe and attractive for West to continue his heart suit and to indicate that the club suit wasn't long enough to be of much importance.

West took the second trick with the ace of clubs and wondered what to do next. It seemed to him that South had the king of diamonds but not the king of spades. Apparently South had won the first trick in dummy in order to save the king of hearts as a sure entry to the rest of his clubs.

If this were the case, it would be foolish in a tournament for West to lead diamonds and give South a trick with the king. At rubber bridge, West might get suspicious and lead a diamond, although even this isn't at all sure.

When this deceptive line of play was adopted at the Atlanta tournament, many defenders swallowed the bait. They returned the queen of hearts after taking the ace of clubs. South then had 10 sure tricks and actually won 12 tricks since West was sure to discard spades in a desperate attempt to defeat the contract.

Denver, Jan. 12 (AP)—"How much tax is due on $75,000 income?" the anonymous woman caller asked a government tax expert yesterday by telephone. About $41,180, not counting deductions, she was told. "Well, what about $150,000?" she asked. The bill jumped to $101,980, the expert's slide rule showed. Asked why she inquired, the woman replied: "I'm just deciding whether to buy one or two tickets on the Irish Sweepstakes. Thanks for your help."

Inspector Convinced

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 12 (AP)—A young Chinese arrested on the streets here at 3 a. m. yesterday convinced the inspector at a police station that he wasn't a thief but merely a playboy. He was allowed to leave. Police now are looking for him again—and the raincoat missing from the station.

Veterans Are Advised On Rights Termination

F. William Sheehan, officer in charge of the Veterans Administration Contact Office in Kingston, has spelled out for veterans and men in service the effects of President Eisenhower's proclamation terminating rights to certain veteran benefits.

The proclamation setting January 31, 1955, as the end of the period for acquiring eligibility for some benefits, does not require veterans to apply for those benefits on or before the termination date, according to the VA Information Service Offce in New York. "Actually, veterans will have the period set by each benefit's law in which to apply," Sheehan explained.

Sheehan outlined VA's interpretation of the proclamation as it affects veterans and men now in service once they become veterans:

EDUCATION AND Training (Public Law 550, known as the Korean GI Bill)—The right to accrue additional training benefits ends January 31 for all men in service. The proclamation sets that date as the last day of the Korean conflict, which began June 27, 1950. Those entering service after Jan. 31, 1955, will not be entitled to education or training under this legislation when they leave service. Men now in service who have not accumulated maximum training entitlement by Jan. 31 will be entitled only to training rights accrued prior to that date. Education or training to which a Korean veteran is entitled must be ended by Jan. 31, 1963, or eight years after discharge, whichever is earlier. The provision that veterans must start education within three years after discharge or release from active service is unchanged.

Home, Farm or Business Loans under Korea GI. Bill—The proclamation establishes Jan. 31, 1955, as the last day of the Korean conflict period when the necessary period of service may begin for entitlement to guaranteed, insured or direct GI loans. Thus, Sheehan said, a man who has one day of service on Jan. 31 may still accrue loan guaranty rights by continuing in service for another 89 days, as 90 days service is required for this particular benefit. Those entering service after Jan. 31 will not be able to establish entitlement to guaranteed, insured or direct GI loans. The end of the GI loan program for eligible Korean veterans is Jan. 31, 1965.

VOCATIONAL Rehabilitation for the Disabled—Jan. 31, 1955, is the last day of the period during which those in service may become eligible for vocational rehabilitation. Those so seriously disabled in service on or before Jan. 31, this year, as to require vocational rehabilitation in order to overcome their handicaps will establish eligibility; those so disabled after that date will not be entitled to vocational rehabilitation. The rehabilitation program will end on January 31, 1964 or nine years after discharge or release from active service, whichever is earlier. No training may be provided beyond those dates except for certain hardship cases which, under the law, are granted an additional four years in which to train.

Compensation or Pension—Jan. 31, 1955 is the last day of the Korean conflict period during which those in service may acquire entitlement to compensation for service-connected disabilities on the same basis as World War 2 veterans. Those who suffer disabilities after that day will be paid compensation at peacetime rates, which are 80 per cent of wartime rates. The same general procedure is followed in regard to non-service-connected disability and to death compensation to widows, children and dependent parents. Dependents of veterans who enter service after January 31 and later die are not entitled to pension for non-service-connected death.

MEDICAL, Hospital and domiciliary Benefits—The proclamation sets January 31, 1955, as the last day of the Korean conflict period during which those in active service may establish entitlement, after discharge, to VA hospitalization or domiciliary care for non-service-connected disabilities on the same basis as wartime veterans. Those entering service after Jan. 31 of this year will be entitled to VA hospitalization or domiciliary care only if they are discharged for disabilities incurred in service in the line of duty or if they are receiving VA compensation for service-connected disabilities.

Burial Benefits—Those entering service after Jan. 31, 1955, become peacetime veterans after discharge or separation from active service. Upon their death the $150 burial expense money provided by the government may be paid only if the veteran was in receipt of compensation at the time of death or had been discharged or retired from active service for disability incurred in line of duty. Jan. 31, 1955, is also the last day of the Korean conflict period during which those in service may acquire eligibility for a burial flag on the same basis as wartime veterans.

AUTOMOBILES — Korean conflict veterans who suffer loss or permanent loss of use of one or both hands or feet or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes as a result of service on or before Jan. 31, 1955, may be eligible for an amount not to exceed $1,600 toward the purchase of an automobile or other conveyance, including special appliances. Those who suffer such disabilities after Jan. 31, 1955, will not be entitled to this benefit when they leave service.

INDUCTEES — An inductee, not yet entered on active duty status, who is injured in the line of duty while en route under orders to report to a place for final acceptance, induction or entry upon active duty, or while at such place or en route home, is considered to have incurred such disability in active military or naval service, at the present time. After Jan. 31, however, inductees who suffer such disabilities will not be entitled to the same benefits.

Additional benefits not administered by the VA will be affected by the proclamation. These include preference in housing purchase or rental, farm loan benefits, preference in job counseling, unemployment compensation under Korean GI Bill, and mustering out pay.

IN A NUTSHELL . . .

Two distinct "periods" are of importance in figuring veterans' benefits:

1. The "earning" period. This is the time the veteran-to-be is still in service and building up his eligibility to benefits.

2. The "using up" period. This is the time during which the veteran actually makes use of the benefits he accrued while in service.

Generally speaking, the President's proclamation terminating the Korean GI rights directly affects only the first period. It means, in effect, that service after June 27, 1950, and before Jan. 31, 1955, is considered wartime service in figuring benefits. Service after Jan. 31, 1955, will be considered peacetime service.

The second period, during which the veteran actually makes use of his benefits, is set by the various benefit laws themselves and are affected only indirectly by the proclamation. Thus, where prior to the proclamation the provision was that education under the Korean GI Bill had to be started within three years after discharge and ended within eight years after discharge, it is now possible to establish an actual "cut-off date," so that the provision now requires training be started within three years after discharge or by Jan. 31, 1963, "whichever is earlier."

A gallon of liquid will cover two square feet about one inch deep.

PLANNING PAYS OFF

Despite their traffic problems and the flight of industry to the suburbs, large cities in America are not doomed to oblivion. Not only are they involved in huge public redevelopments, but private parties are investing considerable sums in large municipal building projects.

Private capital is financing a $41,000,000 office building in Chicago, first in 20 years. Private developers also have leased air rights over existing railroad tracks west of Chicago's Loop, where a $100,000,000 project is planned.

Similar projects are under way in Cleveland, Denver, Kansas City, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Boston and New Haven. None of these projects has come about automatically. All have required advanced and extensive planning, often lasting over a period of years.

But they do show that no problem is insurmountable. Any municipality with the proper leadership and imagination can take similar steps to overcome its problems. Moreover, it is becoming obvious that no municipality, large or small, can afford to sit back and neglect its growing troubles. Competition of the true American variety is developing among cities and towns for existing business. Those willing to invest in their own future will be able to meet this competition.

THEY THINK FREE

The Senate foreign relations committee recently reported that there is evidence of widespread unrest in Communist Hungary and indications that sabotage and underground resistance on a small scale exist in that country. The report warned against deluding ourselves that revolt in that satellite is likely in the immediate future—the Red army and the secret police are too firmly entrenched for that. But the government has earned the distrust, the suspicion and the hatred of the great masses of people who are subject to its edicts.

The report is encouraging even though it makes an overthrow of the Communists seem remote. As long as people resist, even in a small way, the concept of freedom is not entirely dead behind the Iron Curtain. As long as men refuse to let their desire for liberty be buried in hopelessness the possibility of better times remains.

There is a difference between captivity and slavery. A man's body may be imprisoned, he may be forced to accept indignities in silence. But as long as he does not think as a slave and accept his master as his rightful ruler his mind remains free. It is good to know that there are those who live behind the Iron Curtain who have not yet yielded to the pressure to think like slaves.

THOSE NEW MODELS

Proud possessors of new cars sometimes are driven to wonder whether the designers have ever been out on the road or had parking experience. Many remember the models, not so many years ago, which left the motorist little view of the road, and the tires which could be changed only by removing the wheel.

Now the 1955 cars are under grave attack from New York City's traffic commissioner, T. T. Wiley. He thinks them the product of "sheer madness." A drop in car height makes vision difficult across intersections. The greater width of 1955 models will make it harder to get in and out of parking lots and garages. Many are hard enough to get into now, particularly if neighboring cars are parked close behind.

On the other side of the picture are greater beauty and power, abundance of conveniences, undreamed of by the motorist of some years ago. The question is whether all the power is necessary, if not, indeed, dangerous in the hands of only moderately skilled drivers.

Before long there should be some interesting reactions.

Resolutions would be simple if you didn't have to be so resolute when making them.

THE FOUNDATIONS

The hearings of Part I of the Tax-Exempt Foundations by the Reece Committee consist of 943 pages; the Report of the Committee fills 432 pages of hard reading. Nobody can possibly read all the hearings and the full repoort in a few hours and then write a comprehensive article on what this Committee heard and did and proposes, except what can be absorbed at a glance while seeking what one wants to accept.

This much must be said: Granting that the Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations here and there erred, particularly in grants to such organizations as the Institute of Pacific Relations, the amount of good they have done in the world is beyond calculation. Rockefeller money in medical research and education and Carnegie money in education have provided benefits to the human race far beyond measurement in dollars. This goes back to the beginning of this century, under the leadership of Drs. Abraham and Simon Flexner and Alexis Carrel and a host of others who devoted themselves to the obliteration of disease and the prolongation of human life. This work continues to the present moment and any study of the Foundations which ignores it is inadequate.

The same cannot be said of the Ford Foundation which has devoted itself to politics, that is to current questions that have a present political implication. If Rockefeller and Carnegie grants to individuals and organizations work out that way, it is incidental to important projects of permanent value. When the Ford Foundation matures and rids itself of opportunism, it too may use its funds for less temporary values. In fact, the only justification for freeing Foundations from the burdens of taxation which the rest of us have to carry is that the work they do is of permanent social value.

The study of the Foundation, as an institution, ought not to be based solely on errors of judgment or faulty operations, but also upon the value of a reserve of private capital to be used for the public advantage. Were it not for the legal institution of the Foundation, many businesses and private fortunes would be dissipated by punitive tax laws and their proceeds would have gone down the drain in the profligate and often pointless expenditures of government bureaucrrats whose doctrine has not too rarely been to spend for the sake of spending.

If there is a peril to the nation in the existence of Foundations, it is in the failure of the Treasury Department, which has supervision over them to the extent that it can withdraw from them tax exemptions, adequately to supervise their expenditures to make certain that exemptions are not evasions. For instance, expenditures directly or indirectly for political advantage cannot be included in any statement of justifiable tax exemptions, but when Foundations contribute to hospitals, schools, colleges and churches, to medical research, to the prevention of disease and the elimination of affliction, no one can quarrel with them. It is not understandable how the Fund for the Republic comes within this category.

An excellent example of how Foundations get into trouble by expending funds for current problems is in the quarrel between the Carnegie Foundation and the American Bar Association over the Genocide Convention. The Carnegie Foundation gave the American Bar Association a grant to study genocide, a very vexed problem. What the American Bar Association did about this displeased the Carnegie Foundation. The Reece Committee report says of it:

"Without going into details of the controversy, which involved some rather sharp correspondence, we conclude from the facts that Mr. Johnson's irritation stemmed from the Bar Association's having dared to condemn the Genocide Convention." (Joseph A. Johnson is President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.)

This controversy was, in many respects, silly and a negation of the independence of scholarship. Apparently, the American Bar Association did not receive a grant to study the problem of genocide but a subvention to favor the Carnegie Foundation's particular views on the subject. That is not scholarship; it is bribery and an excellent example of the fault in using vast accumulations of wealth to influence or even control public opinion on current problems. This function should clearly be forbidden by law, because if Foundations are permitted to use their enormous wealth as public opinion molders, it could produce an unwholesome conformity and orthodoxy in this country.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CAN WE FACE OLD AGE?

I have written frequently in recent years of the problems facing our steadily aging population—problems of health, of economic security, of utilizing the mature judgment and experience of the older citizen. These problems have arisen because of the steadily increasing life span to which we have to look forward. Today, a woman thirty years old can expect to live to the age of 75 and a man of the same age can reasonably expect to live to the age of 72. The question is, are we prepared within ourselves to face these years in a satisfying fashion?

There are great efforts being made, on the part of both government agencies and private industries, to prepare the older workers for their time of retirement, to try to help them bridge over the difficult interlude from an active, working life to one of retirement. These efforts take various forms, such as, trying to arrange for part-time work for the individual who wishes to continue working; trying to encourage the development of inner resources in the form of helpful hobbies, and the like. There is no doubt all these efforts are well worth while. But what are we doing from the point of view of educating the child and the young man or woman to prepare for these older years?

"The fact is that there is almost no mental preparation for the latter years of life. In America esepcially we often behave as if we were in search of eternal youth and it seems as though our popular writers, fashion designers, the radio, television, advertising, and mass-circulation magazines conspire in the creation of fantasies on which the curtain is drawn down at the age of forty. A long life should be regarded as the greatest of all gifts; what healthy man or woman really wishes to die? But the dread of passing over the threshold of youth, or that increasingly elastic expanse called middle-age, is destroying any sane attempt to educate the people for life after sixty, or so far as women are concerned, after forty-five."

The average young woman who marries at 20 and has two or three children, is apt to be deprived of them by the time she is forty-five. Whatever talents she may have had to earn a living or build a career have been neglected at the expense of domestic activities, yet she must face a possible existence of another 20 or 30 years, many of which she will face alone, as her husband, older than she as a rule, is destined to die younger. "These lonely years are already a curse and a nightmare to vast numbers of women."

The male fate does not appear so dismal. He has his work and his profession to keep him useful and active until he retires. But nevertheless, unless he has acquired a secondary profession or a hobby, he is faced with much the same problem.

Unwelcome Intruder

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—Officers and a group of the students of the new "Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship, Inc.," are scheduled to call at the White House Jan. 11 for a first report on how their enterprise is getting along. There has been practically no publicity about these Eisenhower Exchange Fellowships. They are the creation of a relatively new foundation honoring the President.

For 1955, 12 fellowships have been granted and more are to come, up to a total of 20. Nine have gone to foreigners for special work in the U. S. and three to Americans for research abroad.

They are not the usual type of academic scholarship granted to professors, scientists or artists for postgraduate study.

Eisenhower fellows are to be carefully selected young business executives—25 to 40 years old—of demonstrated ability and a promising future in the field of their countries' greatest need. Each is to get a year's training in business leadership through practical, day-to-day experience in their special fields.

THEY ARE more like business-experience fellowships than abstract scholarships. This is called a manifestation of the new private enterprise, international business statesmanship, which the President praises highly.

The idea for the Eiselnhower Exchange Fellowships originated with Thomas B. McCabe, president of Scott Paper Co. Some time after leaving his Washington job as chairman of the U. S. Federal Reserve Board, Mr. McCabe took a trip abroad. He came back convinced that there should be a closer relationship among the free world's business and professional people.

Mr. McCabe's idea was that private business had a direct responsibility in this field. Unless free world training for leadership were advanced, there never could be world unity.

He began to talk up his idea among his wide circle of business acquaintances. Thomas J. Watson of International Business Machines was made chairman of a finance committee. In little more than a year, he had pledges from 600 businessmen for an average of $500 apiece. Some gave only $250. A few gave $15,000 apiece. The total of $325,000 collected was enough to assure a full year's operation.

WHEN THE Pennsylvania Republicans gave President Eisenhower his whopping big 63rd birthday party at Hershey, Pa., Oct. 14, 1953, Mr. McCabe and his associates spelled out their plan to the President. They asked his permission to call it the "Eisenhower Fellowships," as a birthday tribute to his contributions, as soldier, statesman and leader.

The original idea had been only to bring foreign experts to America for advanced study. President Eisenhower thought that gave the impression this was the only country where anything could be learned. The program was therefore broadened to provide fellowships for American research abroad. Then it was in business.

Headquarters were recently moved from Harvard to New York. Edwin T. Gibson was made president and J. Hampton Barnes executive director. The Board of Trustees includes 50 names prominent in American business.

The first three Americans to receive fellowships are:

Theodore S. Pepplier, Washington, president, Advertising Council of America. He will study information programs in Japan, Hong Kong, India, Thailand and Italy, where Commie pressure is great.

The foreigners receiving Eisenhower fellowships are selected by local committees in countries which the U. S. State Department recommends as having special problems and needs.

Akhiury Sitanath, India, American railway operation methods.

Muhammad Ayub, Pakstan, financing of private industry.

Chalong Pungtrakul, Thailand, private business promotion.

Frederick S. Arkhurst, Gold Coast, public information programs.

John S. Pesmazoglu, Greecee, international investment banking.

Suleyman Demirel, Turkey, electric power development.

Bachelor fellows get $400 a month plus travel, married fellows get $700 a month — and they can bring their wives along.

Do Legal Barriers Take Precedence Over Our National Security, Is Point Raised

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 12—The hullabaloo being raised in Congress about the handling of "security risks" boils down to a simple question. Is the safety of the United States Government and of the American people of paramount importance or is it to be superseded by legalistic barriers now advocated to spare government employees the hazards of investigation? Is even dismissal by the government as a matter of precaution to be subjected to frustrating devices so that ferreting out of subversives is to be made more difficult?

Too many people think the matter of security is an academic question. Many of them, because they dislike Senator McCarthy, now are flippantly quipping that "McCarthyism is a wasm." But it is turning out to be a grim joke. For "McCarthyism"—which was a word first widely used in the columns of the "Daily Worker," the Communist organ — has apparently not yet sufficiently aroused the government to the necessity of taking better security measures.

Thus, in the last few days some tragic exposures have been made but nevertheless the Democratic Party in Congress remains divided on how to meet the dangers of Communist infiltration. While one group of Democrats in Congress is asserting vigorously that they will not relax their interest in the subject of ridding the government of Communists, another group is about to launch an investigation to prove that the Eisenhower administration has been too drastic with its dismissals of employes.

In the midst of it all, Representative Keating of New York, Republican, a member of the House Judiary Committee, has issued the following statement:

"A man by the name of Joseph Petersen, a former code expert in the National Security Agency, has just been sentenced to seven years in prison for espionage. It now has been revealed that the way he was caught was by means of a routine check under the new security program instituted by President Eisenhower.

"Here was a very serious security risk who had been working for the government for years and who would still be on the payroll today, undetected and unapprehended, had this administration not acted promptly and vigorously."

The court proceedings in the Petersen case were mysteriously fragmentary. Again and again the court announced that certain testimony would be heard privately "in chambers." The documents that were presented in open court were few and, it is known, did not compare in their sensational nature with the many withheld from public record.

Petersen made a confession which, in part, was placed in the record. He said:

"I recall furnishing verbal information from this document to Giaccomo Stuydt, whom I knew to be a Dutch National employed at the Dutch Embassy at that time. This information was given to Stuydt at different times and at different places...

"I neglected to return this document to Arlington Hall (National Security Agency) because I was emotionally disturbed as I realized the gravity of my actions to my country in illegally furnishing information from a secret United States government document to an unauthorized foreign national."

What happened after the Dutch government got the data? Was it relayed by someone to Moscow?

Petersen carried away documents from 1948 to 1952, and some of them were of such vital nature that U. S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan, in referring to them said: 'Their disclosure could have, and may have for all the court knows, led to very, very serious consequences to the security of the United States."

Members of Congress, both Republicans and Democrats, are showing unhappiness over another episode—the belated army report on the case of Major Peress, who, according to a comment in the Senate by Senator Daniel of Texas, was a member of the Communist party yet was given an "honorable discharge" after his papers for nearly two years before showed that he had refused to answer a question concerning his Communist connections. Yet Senator McCarthy was vilified and censure recommended by the Watkins Committee because he denounced the general who helped to cover up the case.

Senator Francis Case of South Dakota, Republican, a member of that committee, now says it has been proven that the "army had weighed the request of a Senate committee chairman against that of a suspected subversive and decided in favor of the latter."

The South Dakota senator, it will be recalled, told the Senate he changed his view when he discovered that the army had discharged Major Peress after and not before Senator McCarthy's letter seeking a postponement of that step had been received by the army.

On top of all this there's a "left wing" drive on to surround government employes with complex procedural devices which would supersede the rights of the American government to protect its own safety.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My colleague and stablemate, George Sokolsky, recently came upon and wrote about an indiscreet admission by a writer in an obscure New York Socialist paper that in 1950 a political element undertook to quarantine Pegler. I will quote a few lines from Sok's article and from the essay in the Socialist propaganda paper and then go into my act.

"The word quarantine is used to cut off a person or a place from contact with others," George wrote. "Usually the function of quarantining lies with a government agency. When persons join together for such a purpose they are most often snobs who prefer not to associate with their inferiors or they enter upon a conspiracy to boycott the quarantined person."

He then pounced upon the admission that "around 1950, sophisticates began to dismiss Westbrook Pegler as a faded menace" whose "stuff was old hat."

"The only trouble with this modified form of quarantine," the Socialist paper said, "was that it didn't work. Pegler lost some papers but he gained others."

Now Sokolsky asked, "who are these sophisticates who began to dismiss Pegler? Did they attend a meeting? Did they telephone each other? Did they start a whispering campaign? By what means did they operate this 'modified form of quarantine'?"

In asking these questions, of course, George was just being rhetorical. He knows the answers and so do I. The purposes of this organization are not charity or philanthropy but political action. To achieve such political action it resorts to persecution of law-abiding Americans for "non-comformity" and for independent thought and expression and to systematic book-burning. These methods, strangely enough, are high on the list of the evils which these mock-intellectuals pretend to abhor and to oppose.

George knows who they are and so do I. He knows where their main office is and so do I. He knows that they do hold meetings and do telephone each other and so do I. And he and I know other means by which this "modified form of quarantine" was and continues to be operated clear across the United States.

I have had professional advice that this attempt to muzzle criticism of the deity of a pagan theocracy and members of the, as it were, holy family, by the means which they use in some cases, is actionable as a conspiracy. I have not rejected the idea of calling them to account but have deferred decision because the job in hand is more immediate. I take quite seriously my duty to enlighten to the limit of my ability and the facilities available to me a public which has expressed confidence in me and paid me well for a long time.

Many journalists have submitted. I never have submitted and I never will because I simply can't do it. However, I have tried to reason with some individuals and to persuade them that this impudence is inciting resentment among persons of the gentlest and most charitable instincts who nevertheless stand by their political principles.

This cult has tried to sanctify Eleanor Roosevelt and to condemn as blasphemers whosoever fails to uncover at mention of her name. It is equally horrid to disbelieve in the United Nations, public education directed from a federal bureau in Washington, the infallibility of Eisenhower and the unforgiveable perfidy of Joe McCarthy. These are not all the articles of a creed and code but they are high on the list which, altogether, amounts to proscription of the true Republican party and the Constitution of the Unted States.

As I look back to the start of the New Deal and survey the field of my profession I realize that I could have had a much less troubled career had I renounced principle and joined the opposition. Other reporters did this and fared very well, some of them on less professianal ability than mine. I could have planted relatives on the payrolls, as others have done wangled contracts, dined often at the White House and traveled over in army and air force planes at nominal expense, if any.

But it just wasn't born in me to do that. The "quarantine" through the whispering campaign which Sokolsky knowingly refers to, may ultimately succeed. but if so I will go down knowing that I did not die on my knees.

Longhorns in Zoo

San Diego, Calif. (AP) — The San Diego zoo counts two Texas longhorn steers, named Villa and Lobos, among its new attractions. They were brought here from the federal government's Wichita Mountain refuge near Cache, Okla. Zoo officials said the 230 there represent about the last of the sturdy breed, developed from cattle brought to the new world in the 16th century by the Spaniard Villa Lobos. The zoo said it is the only one in the west exhibiting longhorns.

Were it not for the legal institution of the Foundation, many businesses and private fortunes would be dissipated by punitive tax laws and their proceeds would have gone down the drain in the profligate and often pointless expenditures of government bureaucrrats whose doctrine has not too rarely been to spend for the sake of spending.

If there is a peril to the nation in the existence of Foundations, it is in the failure of the Treasury Department, which has supervision over them to the extent that it can withdraw from them tax exemptions, adequately to supervise their expenditures to make certain that exemptions are not evasions. For instance, expenditures directly or indirectly for political advantage cannot be included in any statement of justifiable tax exemptions, but when Foundations contribute to hospitals, schools, colleges and churches, to medical research, to the prevention of disease and the elimination of affliction, no one can quarrel with them. It is not understandable how the Fund for the Republic comes within this category.

An excellent example of how Foundations get into trouble by expending funds for current problems is in the quarrel between the Carnegie Foundation and the American Bar Association over the Genocide Convention. The Carnegie Foundation gave the American Bar Association a grant to study genocide, a very vexed problem. What the American Bar Association did about this displeased the Carnegie Foundation. The Reece Committee report says of it:

"Without going into details of the controversy, which involved some rather sharp correspondence, we conclude from the facts that Mr. Johnson's irritation stemmed from the Bar Association's having dared to condemn the Genocide Convention." (Joseph A. Johnson is President of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.)

This controversy was, in many respects, silly and a negation of the independence of scholarship. Apparently, the American Bar Association did not receive a grant to study the problem of genocide but a subvention to favor the Carnegie Foundation's particular views on the subject. That is not scholarship; it is bribery and an excellent example of the fault in using vast accumulations of wealth to influence or even control public opinion on current problems. This function should clearly be forbidden by law, because if Foundations are permitted to use their enormous wealth as public opinion molders, it could produce an unwholesome conformity and orthodoxy in this country.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CAN WE FACE OLD AGE?

I have written frequently in recent years of the problems facing our steadily aging population—problems of health, of economic security, of utilizing the mature judgment and experience of the older citizen. These problems have arisen because of the steadily increasing life span to which we have to look forward. Today, a woman thirty years old can expect to live to the age of 75 and a man of the same age can reasonably expect to live to the age of 72. The question is, are we prepared within ourselves to face these years in a satisfying fashion?

There are great efforts being made, on the part of both government agencies and private industries, to prepare the older workers for their time of retirement, to try to help them bridge over the difficult interlude from an active, working life to one of retirement. These efforts take various forms, such as, trying to arrange for part-time work for the individual who wishes to continue working; trying to encourage the development of inner resources in the form of helpful hobbies, and the like. There is no doubt all these efforts are well worth while. But what are we doing from the point of view of educating the child and the young man or woman to prepare for these older years?

"The fact is that there is almost no mental preparation for the latter years of life. In America esepcially we often behave as if we were in search of eternal youth and it seems as though our popular writers, fashion designers, the radio, television, advertising, and mass-circulation magazines conspire in the creation of fantasies on which the curtain is drawn down at the age of forty. A long life should be regarded as the greatest of all gifts; what healthy man or woman really wishes to die? But the dread of passing over the threshold of youth, or that increasingly elastic expanse called middle-age, is destroying any sane attempt to educate the people for life after sixty, or so far as women are concerned, after forty-five."

The average young woman who marries at 20 and has two or three children, is apt to be deprived of them by the time she is forty-five. Whatever talents she may have had to earn a living or build a career have been neglected at the expense of domestic activities, yet she must face a possible existence of another 20 or 30 years, many of which she will face alone, as her husband, older than she as a rule, is destined to die younger. "These lonely years are already a curse and a nightmare to vast numbers of women."

The male fate does not appear so dismal. He has his work and his profession to keep him useful and active until he retires. But nevertheless, unless he has acquired a secondary profession or a hobby, he is faced with much the same problem.

Unwelcome Intruder

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington, (NEA)—Officers and a group of the students of the new "Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship, Inc.," are scheduled to call at the White House Jan. 11 for a first report on how their enterprise is getting along. There has been practically no publicity about these Eisenhower Exchange Fellowships. They are the creation of a relatively new foundation honoring the President.

For 1955, 12 fellowships have been granted and more are to come, up to a total of 20. Nine have gone to foreigners for special work in the U. S. and three to Americans for research abroad.

They are not the usual type of academic scholarship granted to professors, scientists or artists for postgraduate study.

Eisenhower fellows are to be carefully selected young business executives—25 to 40 years old—of demonstrated ability and a promising future in the field of their countries' greatest need. Each is to get a year's training in business leadership through practical, day-to-day experience in their special fields.

THEY ARE more like business-experience fellowships than abstract scholarships. This is called a manifestation of the new private enterprise, international business statesmanship, which the President praises highly.

The idea for the Eiselnhower Exchange Fellowships originated with Thomas B. McCabe, president of Scott Paper Co. Some time after leaving his Washington job as chairman of the U. S. Federal Reserve Board, Mr. McCabe took a trip abroad. He came back convinced that there should be a closer relationship among the free world's business and professional people.

Mr. McCabe's idea was that private business had a direct responsibility in this field. Unless free world training for leadership were advanced, there never could be world unity.

He began to talk up his idea among his wide circle of business acquaintances. Thomas J. Watson of International Business Machines was made chairman of a finance committee. In little more than a year, he had pledges from 600 businessmen for an average of $500 apiece. Some gave only $250. A few gave $15,000 apiece. The total of $325,000 collected was enough to assure a full year's operation.

WHEN THE Pennsylvania Republicans gave President Eisenhower his whopping big 63rd birthday party at Hershey, Pa., Oct. 14, 1953, Mr. McCabe and his associates spelled out their plan to the President. They asked his permission to call it the "Eisenhower Fellowships," as a birthday tribute to his contributions, as soldier, statesman and leader.

The original idea had been only to bring foreign experts to America for advanced study. President Eisenhower thought that gave the impression this was the only country where anything could be learned. The program was therefore broadened to provide fellowships for American research abroad. Then it was in business.

Headquarters were recently moved from Harvard to New York. Edwin T. Gibson was made president and J. Hampton Barnes executive director. The Board of Trustees includes 50 names prominent in American business.

The first three Americans to receive fellowships are:

Theodore S. Pepplier, Washington, president, Advertising Council of America. He will study information programs in Japan, Hong Kong, India, Thailand and Italy, where Commie pressure is great.

The foreigners receiving Eisenhower fellowships are selected by local committees in countries which the U. S. State Department recommends as having special problems and needs.

Akhiury Sitanath, India, American railway operation methods.

Muhammad Ayub, Pakstan, financing of private industry.

Chalong Pungtrakul, Thailand, private business promotion.

Frederick S. Arkhurst, Gold Coast, public information programs.

John S. Pesmazoglu, Greecee, international investment banking.

Suleyman Demirel, Turkey, electric power development.

Bachelor fellows get $400 a month plus travel, married fellows get $700 a month — and they can bring their wives along.

Do Legal Barriers Take Precedence Over Our National Security, Is Point Raised

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 12—The hullabaloo being raised in Congress about the handling of "security risks" boils down to a simple question. Is the safety of the United States Government and of the American people of paramount importance or is it to be superseded by legalistic barriers now advocated to spare government employees the hazards of investigation? Is even dismissal by the government as a matter of precaution to be subjected to frustrating devices so that ferreting out of subversives is to be made more difficult?

Too many people think the matter of security is an academic question. Many of them, because they dislike Senator McCarthy, now are flippantly quipping that "McCarthyism is a wasm." But it is turning out to be a grim joke. For "McCarthyism"—which was a word first widely used in the columns of the "Daily Worker," the Communist organ — has apparently not yet sufficiently aroused the government to the necessity of taking better security measures.

Thus, in the last few days some tragic exposures have been made but nevertheless the Democratic Party in Congress remains divided on how to meet the dangers of Communist infiltration. While one group of Democrats in Congress is asserting vigorously that they will not relax their interest in the subject of ridding the government of Communists, another group is about to launch an investigation to prove that the Eisenhower administration has been too drastic with its dismissals of employes.

In the midst of it all, Representative Keating of New York, Republican, a member of the House Judiary Committee, has issued the following statement:

"A man by the name of Joseph Petersen, a former code expert in the National Security Agency, has just been sentenced to seven years in prison for espionage. It now has been revealed that the way he was caught was by means of a routine check under the new security program instituted by President Eisenhower.

"Here was a very serious security risk who had been working for the government for years and who would still be on the payroll today, undetected and unapprehended, had this administration not acted promptly and vigorously."

The court proceedings in the Petersen case were mysteriously fragmentary. Again and again the court announced that certain testimony would be heard privately "in chambers." The documents that were presented in open court were few and, it is known, did not compare in their sensational nature with the many withheld from public record.

Petersen made a confession which, in part, was placed in the record. He said:

"I recall furnishing verbal information from this document to Giaccomo Stuydt, whom I knew to be a Dutch National employed at the Dutch Embassy at that time. This information was given to Stuydt at different times and at different places...

"I neglected to return this document to Arlington Hall (National Security Agency) because I was emotionally disturbed as I realized the gravity of my actions to my country in illegally furnishing information from a secret United States government document to an unauthorized foreign national."

What happened after the Dutch government got the data? Was it relayed by someone to Moscow?

Petersen carried away documents from 1948 to 1952, and some of them were of such vital nature that U. S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan, in referring to them said: "Their disclosure could have, and may have for all the court knows, led to very, very serious consequences to the security of the United States."

Members of Congress, both Republicans and Democrats, are showing unhappiness over another episode—the belated army report on the case of Major Peress, who, according to a comment in the Senate by Senator Daniel of Texas, was a member of the Communist party yet was given an "honorable discharge" after his papers for nearly two years before showed that he had refused to answer a question concerning his Communist connections. Yet Senator McCarthy was vilified and censure recommended by the Watkins Committee because he denounced the general who helped to cover up the case.

Senator Francis Case of South Dakota, Republican, a member of that committee, now says it has been proven that the "army had weighed the request of a Senate committee chairman against that of a suspected subversive and decided in favor of the latter."

The South Dakota senator, it will be recalled, told the Senate he changed his view when he discovered that the army had discharged Major Peress after and not before Senator McCarthy's letter seeking a postponement of that step had been received by the army.

On top of all this there's a "left wing" drive on to surround government employes with complex procedural devices which would supersede the rights of the American government to protect its own safety.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

My colleague and stablemate, George Sokolsky, recently came upon and wrote about an indiscreet admission by a writer in an obscure New York Socialist paper that in 1950 a political element undertook to quarantine Pegler. I will quote a few lines from Sok's article and from the essay in the Socialist propaganda paper and then go into my act.

"The word quarantine is used to cut off a person or a place from contact with others," George wrote. "Usually the function of quarantining lies with a government agency. When persons join together for such a purpose they are most often snobs who prefer not to associate with their inferiors or they enter upon a conspiracy to boycott the quarantined person."

He then pounced upon the admission that "around 1950, sophisticates began to dismiss Westbrook Pegler as a faded menace" whose "stuff was old hat."

"The only trouble with this modified form of quarantine," the Socialist paper said, "was that it didn't work. Pegler lost some papers but he gained others."

Now Sokolsky asked, "who are these sophisticates who began to dismiss Pegler? Did they attend a meeting? Did they telephone each other? Did they start a whispering campaign? By what means did they operate this 'modified form of quarantine'?"

In asking these questions, of course, George was just being rhetorical. He knows the answers and so do I. The purposes of this organization are not charity or philanthropy but political action. To achieve such political action it resorts to persecution of law-abiding Americans for "non-comformity" and for independent thought and expression and to systematic book-burning. These methods, strangely enough, are high on the list of the evils which these mock-intellectuals pretend to abhor and to oppose.

George knows who they are and so do I. He knows where their main office is and so do I. He knows that they do hold meetings and do telephone each other and so do I. And he and I know other means by which this "modified form of quarantine" was and continues to be operated clear across the United States.

I have had professional advice that this attempt to muzzle criticism of the deity of a pagan theocracy and members of the, as it were, holy family, by the means which they use in some cases, is actionable as a conspiracy. I have not rejected the idea of calling them to account but have deferred decision because the job in hand is more immediate. I take quite seriously my duty to enlighten to the limit of my ability and the facilities available to me a public which has expressed confidence in me and paid me well for a long time.

Many journalists have submitted. I never have submitted and I never will because I simply can't do it. However, I have tried to reason with some individuals and to persuade them that this impudence is inciting resentment among persons of the gentlest and most charitable instincts who nevertheless stand by their political principles.

This cult has tried to sanctify Eleanor Roosevelt and to condemn as blasphemers whosoever fails to uncover at mention of her name. It is equally horrid to disbelieve in the United Nations, public education directed from a federal bureau in Washington, the infallibility of Eisenhower and the unforgiveable perfidy of Joe McCarthy. These are not all the articles of a creed and code but they are high on the list which, altogether, amounts to proscription of the true Republican party and the Constitution of the Unted States.

As I look back to the start of the New Deal and survey the field of my profession I realize that I could have had a much less troubled career had I renounced principle and joined the opposition. Other reporters did this and fared very well, some of them on less professianal ability than mine. I could have planted relatives on the payrolls, as others have done wangled contracts, dined often at the White House and traveled over in army and air force planes at nominal expense, if any.

But it just wasn't born in me to do that. The "quarantine" through the whispering campaign which Sokolsky knowingly refers to, may ultimately succeed, but if so I will go down knowing that I did not die on my knees.

Longhorns in Zoo

San Diego, Calif. (AP) — The San Diego zoo counts two Texas longhorn steers, named Villa and Lobos, among its new attractions. They were brought here from the federal government's Wichita Mountain refuge near Cache, Okla. Zoo officials said the 230 there represent about the last of the sturdy breed, developed from cattle brought to the new world in the 16th century by the Spaniard Villa Lobos. The zoo said it is the only one in the west exhibiting longhorns.

Although the term "infantry" seems to come from a Latin word meaning "infant," no one is sure how it came to mean "soldier."

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

An extraordinary situation has arisen, following the so-called "warning" by the Federal Reserve Board last week—when margins on stock purchases were raised from 50 to 60 per cent of the purchase price.

I say "extraordinary," because in practically every publication you pick up—newspapers and magazines alike—writers tell us that the mild increase in margin requirements doesn't amount to anything.

We're then shown that in previous times when the Federal Reserve has increased margins on stock purchases, the stock market shortly went up into "new highs" (after a little unsettlement).

These comments are so pronounced this time that the Ruminator is wondering how "contrary" the effects and results will be ever coming weeks.

WE MIGHT PROFITABLY ruminate over the question from two angles:

Will the almost universal opinion (that the "warning" won't have any effect) cause more speculation rather than less? That is, will the public now come into the market even more actively because they learn that stocks always go higher after such warnings? If this were to be the case, then obviously the speculative situation is still precarious.

Another viewpoint, which has been well expressed by a friend of mine who is a market historian of note, is that "the Federal Reserve always gets its market—soon or later." What he means is that, although in the past the market has seemingly ignored the warnings (by advancing again), after a period prices have collapsed.

It seems to the Ruminator that it is pretty tough on the amateur stock-market trader and small investor to take the chance on misleading him by so dogmatically asserting that a warning by the banking authorities "means little or nothing."

OBVIOUSLY, WASHINGTON IS, and has been, much concerned over the fast-rising stock market and accompanying increase in speculation. While it is true that the "public" has probably not become deeply involved in market-speculation, nevertheless Washington would like to see the activity curbed. In the past, over-active speculation has led to severe falls in prices with all the discouragement and pessimism that follow a sharp drop in the market.

It would be ironical, indeed, if the initial warning of last week were to be taken by the public as an invitation to "get in" rather than to be cautious and prudent.

ANOTHER PECULIAR TWIST to this event is the number of people who are saying, "it was good thing to throw cold water on the market and to have prices drop for a day or two; it has brushed off the careless traders." Certainly, under our present-day theory of "social consciousness" the government, or its financial agents, cannot be desirious of "hurting" the small investors or traders. So it seems to me that there is a good deal of twisted thinking going on over the stock-market situation at the moment.

Under "managed economics" this writer cannot think of any program more conductive to clear thinking than to make it a practice to look on the opposite side of these pronouncements when they appear.

We have to remember that "money-wise" people are as fully conversant with economic trends and psychological trends as are the "authorities" who try to manage and control the trends. Thus there is the condition always prevailing where business and Wall Street are constantly looking behind the pronouncements and trying to anticipate them or outwit them.

The "catch" in trying to manage economic affairs is that usually it is the uninitiated "crowd" which fails to understand what is going on and which gets hurt.

Whether it will be the same this time, naturally no one knows. It could be possible that the "crowd" will not stampede into the stock market this time. Countless people have felt that stock prices are too high. If they continue to feel this way—and are not misled by the belief that prices "always go higher after the first warnings"—then we may experience the interesting and "contrary" situation where the "public for once wasn't wrong."

THE RUMINATOR has run along this week on a stock-market discussion because of its current interest. Also, if this writer can help to start trains of analytical thought in your mind he might be of some service. What we all have to remember is that "what is generally expected, seldom happens in Wall Street." It is indeed a time for thoughtful ruminating; and a time when it may become hazardous to be carried away by "general opinions." It is not the present moment which may fool us, but the nearby weeks when the Federal Reserve warning is forgotten and thought to be an instance of calling "wolf, wolf."

First Transatlantic Telephone Cable to Be Laid This Summer

Loading cable in the tanks of H.M.S. Monarch. This operation often takes weeks, but the care taken pays off in that the ship cannot afford tangles or breaks when under way. The 1200-mile cable will contain 2700 tons of copper, 11,000 tons of steel wire, 1800 tons of jute yard, 2.4 million yards of cotton cloth and 1400 tons of insulation.

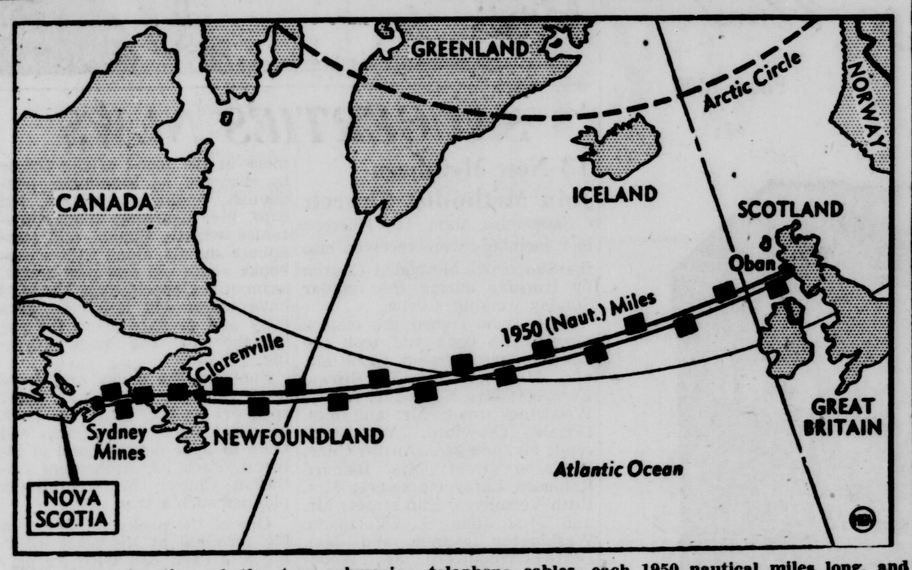

H.M.S. Monarch with the cable over her bow. Monarch is the only ship in the world capable of laying such a length of cable. Even this ship had to have the bow and stern sheaves enlarged for the job to a diameter of seven feet.

Dropping buoy to mark end of cable near the shore. Buoys make work easier if final splices have to be made at night.

The world's first transatlantic telephone cable is now under construction and is scheduled to be in operation by Christmas, 1956. It is a cooperative project of Britain's General Post Office, American Telephone and Telegraph and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corp. It will cost $35,000,000 and will be the longest in the world. Britain will pay 41 per cent of the cost, teh U. S. 50 per cent and Canada nine per cent. The system will consist of two undersea cables, each 1950 nautical miles long and a 335-mile single cable, part over land and part under water. The cable will weigh three tons per nautical mile. The whole of the 1500-mile, deep-water section will have to be laid in a single operation without pause, for the cable may buckle if the cable-ship has to stop during the laying. So it must be done in summer's good weather. Therefore the first cable will be laid this summer and the second in the summer of 19566.

Map shows location of the two submarine telephone cables, each 1950 nautical miles long, and the 335-mile single cable. Black squares represent 118 "boosters" to amplify sound so voices will be as clear at the outcoming end as the incoming end. Boosters are housed in ingenious flexible containers. Each is only large enough for one booster, which is why two cables have to be laid.

In fact, 11 other countries led the United States in per capita use of milk. Ireland and New Zealand headed the list with 1,382 and 1,349 pounds respectively.

Going to Congress

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 12 (AP)—Paul G. Rogers is going to Congress to fill the Sixth District Democratic seat vacated by the death of his father, Dwight L. Rogers. Complete, unofficial returns from the 217 precincts of the 11-county district gave Rogers, a 33-year-old Democrat and West Palm Beach attorney, 30,131 votes to 21,515 for his Republican opponent, J. Herbert Burke, in yesterday's special election. Rogers' victory gives the Democrats 232 members in the House, to 203 for the Republicans.

Sales to Minors Bring Suspensions

Following an investigation which began last spring involving the sale of intoxicating beverages to minors, the license of several local taverns has been suspended, according to notice which has been received by District Attorney Howard C. St. John, from the New York State Liquor Authority. When the complaints were lodged with the district attorney's office they were in turn turned over to the liquor authority for investigation.

Notice of suspensions have been received involving the New Paltz Tavern, operated by Willard Mertine, which had invoked a 30 day suspension; Jennie Nosenzo, Rosendale, 25 day suspension; Vincent Pantony on the New Paltz-Ohioville road, 25-day suspension and Stephen S. Erceg of Rosendale, who received a 10-day suspension.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

An extraordinary situation has arisen, following the so-called "warning" by the Federal Reserve Board last week—when margins on stock purchases were raised from 50 to 60 per cent of the purchase price.

I say "extraordinary," because in practically every publication you pick up—newspapers and magazines alike—writers tell us that the mild increase in margin requirements doesn't amount to anything.

We're then shown that in previous times when the Federal Reserve has increased margins on stock purchases, the stock market shortly went up into "new highs" (after a little unsettlement).

These comments are so pronounced this time that the Ruminator is wondering how "contrary" the effects and results will be ever coming weeks.

WE MIGHT PROFITABLY ruminate over the question from two angles:

Will the almost universal opinion (that the "warning" won't have any effect) cause more speculation rather than less? That is, will the public now come into the market even more actively because they learn that stocks always go higher after such warnings? If this were to be the case, then obviously the speculative situation is still precarious.

Another viewpoint, which has been well expressed by a friend of mine who is a market historian of note, is that "the Federal Reserve always gets its market—soon or later." What he means is that, although in the past the market has seemingly ignored the warnings (by advancing again), after a period prices have collapsed.

It seems to the Ruminator that it is pretty tough on the amateur stock-market trader and small investor to take the chance on misleading him by so dogmatically asserting that a warning by the banking authorities "means little or nothing."

OBVIOUSLY, WASHINGTON IS, and has been, much concerned over the fast-rising stock market and accompanying increase in speculation. While it is true that the "public" has probably not become deeply involved in market-speculation, nevertheless Washington would like to see the activity curbed. In the past, over-active speculation has led to severe falls in prices with all the discouragement and pessimism that follow a sharp drop in the market.

It would be ironical, indeed, if the initial warning of last week were to be taken by the public as an invitation to "get in" rather than to be cautious and prudent.

ANOTHER PECULIAR TWIST to this event is the number of people who are saying, "it was good thing to throw cold water on the market and to have prices drop for a day or two; it has brushed off the careless traders." Certainly, under our present-day theory of "social consciousness" the government, or its financial agents, cannot be desirious of "hurting" the small investors or traders. So it seems to me that there is a good deal of twisted thinking going on over the stock-market situation at the moment.

Under "managed economics" this writer cannot think of any program more conductive to clear thinking than to make it a practice to look on the opposite side of these pronouncements when they appear.

We have to remember that "money-wise" people are as fully conversant with economic trends and psychological trends as are the "authorities" who try to manage and control the trends. Thus there is the condition always prevailing where business and Wall Street are constantly looking behind the pronouncements and trying to anticipate them or outwit them.

The "catch" in trying to manage economic affairs is that usually it is the uninitiated "crowd" which fails to understand what is going on and which gets hurt.

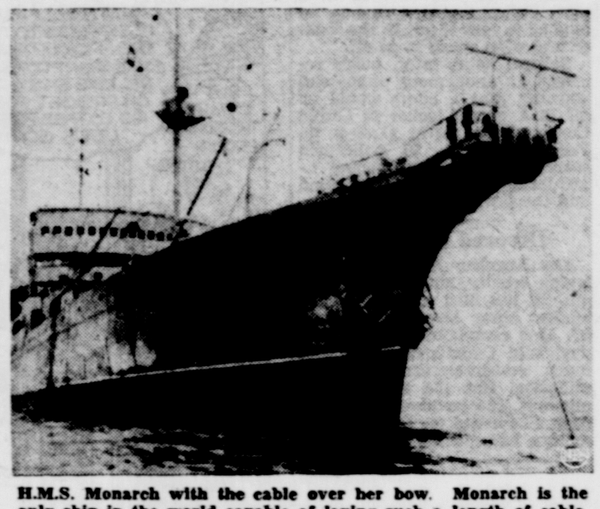

Whether it will be the same this time, naturally no one knows. It could be possible that the "crowd" will not stampede into the stock market this time. Countless people have felt that stock prices are too high. If they continue to feel this way—and are not misled by the belief that prices "always go higher after the first warnings"—then we may experience the interesting and "contrary" situation where the "public for once wasn't wrong."

THE RUMINATOR has run along this week on a stock-market discussion because of its current interest. Also, if this writer can help to start trains of analytical thought in your mind he might be of some service. What we all have to remember is that "what is generally expected, seldom happens in Wall Street." It is indeed a time for thoughtful ruminating; and a time when it may become hazardous to be carried away by "general opinions." It is not the present moment which may fool us, but the nearby weeks when the Federal Reserve warning is forgotten and thought to be an instance of calling "wolf, wolf."

First Transatlantic Telephone Cable to Be Laid This Summer

Loading cable in the tanks of H.M.S. Monarch. This operation often takes weeks, but the care taken pays off in that the ship cannot afford tangles or breaks when under way. The 1950-mile cable will contain 2700 tons of copper, 11,000 tons of steel wire, 1800 tons of jute yard, 2.4 million yards of cotton cloth and 1400 tons of insulation.

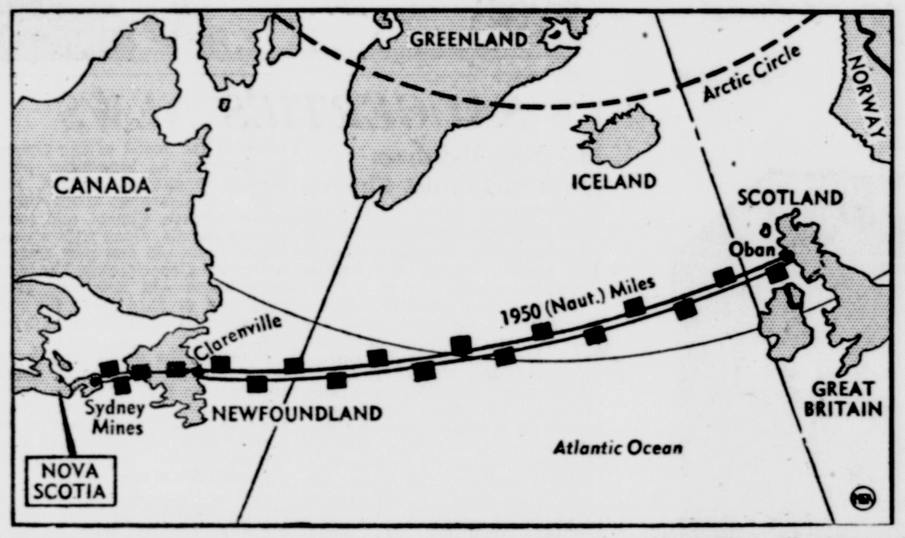

H.M.S. Monarch with the cable over her bow. Monarch is the only ship in the world capable of laying such a length of cable. Even this ship had to have the bow and stern sheaves enlarged for the job to a diameter of seven feet.

Dropping buoy to mark end of cable near the shore. Buoys make work easier if final splices have to be made at night.

The world's first transatlantic telephone cable is now under construction and is scheduled to be in operation by Christmas, 1956. It is a cooperative project of Britain's General Post Office, American Telephone and Telegraph and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corp. It will cost $35,000,000 and will be the longest in the world. Britain will pay 41 per cent of the cost, teh U. S. 50 per cent and Canada nine per cent. The system will consist of two undersea cables, each 1950 nautical miles long and a 335-mile single cable, part over land and part under water. The cable will weigh three tons per nautical mile. The whole of the 1500-mile, deep-water section will have to be laid in a single operation without pause, for the cable may buckle if the cable-ship has to stop during the laying. So it must be done in summer's good weather. Therefore the first cable will be laid this summer and the second in the summer of 19566.

Map shows location of the two submarine telephone cables, each 1950 nautical miles long, and the 335-mile single cable. Black squares represent 118 "boosters" to amplify sound so voices will be as clear at the outcoming end as the incoming end. Boosters are housed in ingenious flexible containers. Each is only large enough for one booster, which is why two cables have to be laid.

Man, 45, Dies In Electric Chair

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 12 (AP)—Visibly frightened, 45-year-old Eugene Monahan went to his death in the electric chair last night for the tavern slayings of a bartender and a patron.

Monahan, who had trained his teen-aged son as an accomplice in a wave of robberies, was electrocuted for the fatal shootings which took place during a $53 holdup of the tavern in Elizabeth last year.

His son, Michael, was with him during the holdup. During the elder Monahan's trial, it was brought out that the father had fired the fatal shots. The father had spent more than a third of his lifetime behind prison bars.

Young Monahan, now 16, is serving an indefinite term in a state reformatory.

Bomb Explodes In Penn Station

The bomb wrecked three small lockers in the Long Island Railroad section of the station but injured none of those passing by at the height of the commuter rush-hour.

The blast set fire to clothing stored in one of the lockers. The blaze was quickly put out by a passerby, Arnold J. Canton, 34, a dress shop owner who is a volunteer fireman in his home town of Great Neck.

CANTON FIRST THREW a bucket of water on the fire and then grabbed an emergeny wall hose. He had the fire out by the time city firemen arrived.

The bomb was encased in a pipe. Police reported finding no clue as to how it got in the locker and what made it go off.

Several hours later, police received an anonymous phone call warning that a bomb would go off in a parcel locker in Grand Central Terminal at 11:30 p. m. For two hours 30 policemen searched the station opening 1,150 lockers. No bomb was found and there was no explosion.

Her complaint, filed yesterday, said Courtland caused her much embarrassment and humiliation. She did not ask for alimony. The couple has no children. She asked for return of her maiden name, Polly Bergin.

4 GOP Senators Defend Nixon

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Republican high command again defended Vice President Nixon against Democratic criticism today, issuing a statement in his praise signed by four GOP midwestern state chairmen.

"We believe we speak for the vast majority of Americans who resent below-the-belt attacks currently being made upon the vice president," the statement said. "People in general are getting pretty sick of these pitiful cries of 'smear' which lack any trace of proof."

The statement, distributed by the GOP National Committee, bore the names of these four state party chairmen: Ray C. Bliss, Ohio; Alvin C. Cast, Indiana; Morton H. Hollingsworth, Illinois; and Don C. Pierson, Iowa.

ALL FOUR WERE among the guests at a stag dinner given by President Eisenhower at the White House Monday night.

Many Democrats have criticized the vice president, the most active GOP campaigner in the weeks before the November elections, on the ground that he sought to indict Democrats generally for a softness toward communism.

In what looked like a campaign by the GOP to counter the criticism, the four state chairmen said they wanted to thank Nixon publicly for his service to the party and the American people in the campaign.

"NEEDLESS TO SAY, the vice president went before the American people in the 1954 campaign with facts about the destructive effects of left wing influence in government—facts which were distilled in a year and a half of cleaning up after a party which ran its reckless course for nearly a generation," the state chairmen's statement said.

"The Democrats engaged in these attacks would better serve their country if they gave more time and attention to supporting President Eisenhower's legislative program and less to assaulting the character of the vice president."

Cub Scouts Devote Month to Railroading

Saugerties, Jan. 11—Eugene H. Davis, Saugerties district commissioner of scouting announced today that railroading, the Cub Scout theme for January would be promoted to the hilt by all the Cubbing units in the Saugerties area.

The ideas committee of the various packs have been planning for some weeks now with leaders and den mothers on the various phases and ways the new theme can be promoted. Help has been offered through the council office from the Association of American Railroads.

Some of the packs are planning visits to railroad centers for inspection tours of yards, locomotives, roundhouses, etc. At least two of the packs, 130 VFW and 36, St. Mary's Church are planning to visit model railroad clubs both in Saugerties and Kingston.

MANY OF THE displays will be centered around electric train sets which some of the boys own. Other packs will build displays with the help of den dads. These can be improvised from shoe boxes, milk cartons or the like. Some dens will take on the project to build a large model railroad with a barrel engine.

A wide variety of stories and events can form a background for simple den skits and take-offs. Dens can act out safety rules, Casey Jones, John Henry, a ride on a streamliner, the golden spike and make up others about the Loose Caboose or the Jolly Trolley. There are many songs and records about railroads that will be used to emphasize the theme during the next pack meetings scheduled for the last week of the month.

THE CUB SCOUTS will feel more in the mood of the theme by dressing as brakemen, conductors, engineers, porters, red caps, etc. Learning about timetables, whistle signals, and semaphore signals, along with scrapbooks about old and new trains, locomotives, special trips the boys have taken will keep the dens busy and prepare them for the big show at the pack meeting.

Some of the packs may have local railroad men as guest speakers at the den or pack meetings. Some of the packs will train to some nearby point of interest. Pack 32, Atonement Lutheran Church has tentatively planned such a trip.

One of the packs will set up a big terminal at the pack meeting and each den with its parents will sit in an observation car on the track having that den's number. Everybody will buy a tour ticket and stops to see the displays, demonstrations and finally sits in the observation car of their train for the main show.

THE THEME also offers the cubs the opportunity to complete the requirements for tools, scrapbook, safety, reading, secret codes and signs, handicraft,, things that go, simple machines and make believe, know your neighborhood, going places, travel from home and many others.

Many of the rooms where pack meetings will be held will be appropriately decorated for the theme. Some will take on the appearance of waiting rooms, terminals, and train platforms.

Commissioner Davis urges parents who are not participating in the Cub Scout program in Saugerties to watch the newspapers for time and places and attend one of these fine pack meetings the last week of the month. "Perhaps you and your boy will want to join in the fun and become a member of one of these fine scouting units, he said.

Bomb Explodes In Penn Station

The blast set fire to clothing stored in one of the lockers. The blaze was quickly put out by a passerby, Arnold J. Canton, 34, a dress shop owner who is a volunteer fireman in his home town of Great Neck.

CANTON FIRST THREW a bucket of water on the fire and then grabbed an emergeny wall hose. He had the fire out by the time city firemen arrived.

The bomb was encased in a pipe. Police reported finding no clue as to how it got in the locker and what made it go off.

Several hours later, police received an anonymous phone call warning that a bomb would go off in a parcel locker in Grand Central Terminal at 11:30 p. m. For two hours 30 policemen searched the station opening 1,150 lockers. No bomb was found and there was no explosion.

4 GOP Senators Defend Nixon

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Republican high command again defended Vice President Nixon against Democratic criticism today, issuing a statement in his praise signed by four GOP midwestern state chairmen.

"We believe we speak for the vast majority of Americans who resent below-the-belt attacks currently being made upon the vice president," the statement said. "People in general are getting pretty sick of these pitiful cries of 'smear' which lack any trace of proof."

The statement, distributed by the GOP National Committee, bore the names of these four state party chairmen: Ray C. Bliss, Ohio; Alvin C. Cast, Indiana; Morton H. Hollingsworth, Illinois; and Don C. Pierson, Iowa.

ALL FOUR WERE among the guests at a stag dinner given by President Eisenhower at the White House Monday night.

Many Democrats have criticized the vice president, the most active GOP campaigner in the weeks before the November elections, on the ground that he sought to indict Democrats generally for a softness toward communism.

In what looked like a campaign by the GOP to counter the criticism, the four state chairmen said they wanted to thank Nixon publicly for his service to the party and the American people in the campaign.

"NEEDLESS TO SAY, the vice president went before the American people in the 1954 campaign with facts about the destructive effects of left wing influence in government—facts which were distilled in a year and a half of cleaning up after a party which ran its reckless course for nearly a generation," the state chairmen's statement said.

"The Democrats engaged in these attacks would better serve their country if they gave more time and attention to supporting President Eisenhower's legislative program and less to assaulting the character of the vice president."

Local Guard Unit Is Given Trophy For Field Work

Outstanding work during the last field training period at Camp Drum has won the Prescott Trophy for the officers and men of Headquarters Battery, 156th Field Artillery Battalion, Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commander, said this morning.

The award is presented annually by Brig Gen. Prescott of Buffalo.

Official presentation of the trophy, engraved Honor Battery-1954, was made Tuesday night by Col. Harkin to Captain Andrew B. Grier, commanding officer of Headquarters Battery.

Headquarters Battery of the 156th competed with 26 other organizations within the 27th Division for the award which is based on training efficiency and combat preparedness.

IN LINE with the award, the army ratings for Headquarters Battery, in addition to Service Battery, Medical Detachment, Battery B and Battery C of the 156th, are officially known as superior.

High commendation of the battalion's efficiency also has been received from Major Gen. Hausauer, commanding general of the New York National Guard. During the last state inspection of the 156th Armory on Manor avenue the installation received a superior rating.

In announcing this rating, Col. Harkin paid tribute to the excellent assistance received from state and federal employes in Kingston and Poughkeepsie as helpful in maintaining the local installation.

McCarthy Threatened

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) returned from an undisclosed mission yesterday and learned his next door neighbor had reported a telephone warning that the senator would be "blown up." A police guard was stationed near the McCarthy home, one of a row of houses joined together. The neighbor, Mrs. George W. Ennis, told newsmen a "man with a foreign-sounding voice" called and told her: "We want you to vacate the premises. We're going to blow up Sen. Joe McCarthy." McCarthy said he believed "some crackpot" made the call.

Man Is Held For Grand Jury

Thomas Yerry, Jr., 18, of Union street, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster this morning on a charge of grand larceny first degree in the theft of a 1951 jeep truck.

He waived examination and was held for appearance before the grand jury.

Yerry was arrested by Kingston city police yesterday and turned over to Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly, Bureau of Criminal Investigation, state police.

Yerry was charged with grand larceny second degree upon arrest but the charge was changed to first degree because the value of the truck is more than $500.

August Bergemann of High Falls reported the truck missing at 5 a. m. yesterday. It was recovered a short time later by city police who found it parked on East Union street near Chambers street.

Woman Is Suing For 1953 Fall

Alleging she fell over a defective doorstep on September 12, 1953 when she visited the premises of William Sondak, her father-in-law, for the purpose of looking at a bungalow for her parents, Mrs. Beverly Sondak of Kerhonkson brings an action to recover for injuries which she suffered at that time.

Mrs. Sondak claims she sustained a broken ankle when she fell over a defect in construction on the permises. She alleges there was a defect in the construction of the foundation and the door sill and that her injuries were caused by the negligence of the defendant while she was free from negligence.

While Mrs. Beverly Sondak claims the accident was due to the negligence of the defendant, William Sondak, he defends the action on the grounds the condition had existed for some 12 years and no one had ever been injured before and he claims the plaintiff was injured through her own negligence.

IT IS CHARGED that just prior to the accident her small child had begun to cry when a toy was taken away and in her haste to get into the house and quiet the child she did not exercise due care.

Philip Korn appears for Mrs. Sondak and her husband, Sol Sondak, and Sidney Applebaum appears of counsel for E. Edan Spencer, attorney of record for defendant, in the action on trial in Supreme Court before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth and a jury.

A negligence action brought by Kenneth Bonville and another against Textile Motor Freight and another, was announced as settled. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Stanley Johnson and Thomas C. Cusack for defendants.

Also settled was No. 224, Herbert Panitch against Jacob Manowitz and another, a negligence action. Seymour Krieger for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants, and No. 226, Fannie Gambino against John Hollesen and another, negligence. Schirmer and Carnright for plaintiff and Cusack and Shumate for defendants.

Police headquarters recorded "several calls" shortly before midnight reporting the fallen limb. Both streets were blocked and Officers Francis Buchanan and William Synder were dispatched to the intersection to handle traffic.

President Says

June or July, as in the past, the committee is proposing a September session. The Democrats have tentatively set Aug. 27 for their convention.

The President, without disclosing whether he plans to seek a second term, said he believes it would be foolish to drag out the campaign after the convention. He touched off a roar of laughter by characterizing it as bosh that anyone would get the impression he plans to run again because he favors a short campaign.

ATOMIC WEAPONS—Eisenhower said that normally he would not favor the use of atomic weapons on a tactical basis in what he referred to as a police action war. He was talking about a small war—something far short of a general conflict.

SECURITY PROGRAM — As for the administration's general security program covering government employes — a program which Democrats in Congress have criticized sharply — the President said in response to a question that he does not see at this time how a review of the program by a special commission could be in any way helpful.

Eisenhower went on to say that a unit has been set up in the Justice Department to keep a constant watch over the program and said he feels that is adequate. He added, however, he would call for creation of a special commission if he should become convinced that one is needed.

NIAGARA FALLS — Asked whether he favors public or private development of Niagara Falls power, the President replied that in his opinion that is a matter for the state of New York to handle.

At the outset of the news conference the President remarked with a smile that he had not had an opportunity to wish newsmen a happy new year and wanted to do so.

Then he took brief note of the dispute between Costa Rica and Nicaragua, saying that a commission picked by the organization of American States had left early this morning for the scene of the trouble to make an investigation. Eisenhower added he would have no further comment pending the outcome of that inquiry.

The first question put to the President dealt with the Ladejinsky case and a good half of the 30-minute news conference was taken up by subsequent discussion of that matter.

Plane Downed

A command spokesman said the superior fire power of the government's forces was the principal factor in the withdrawal of the rebels from their outlying positions.

There was no immediate mention of casualties.

President Jose Figueres' government had promised decisive action today to quell the revolt at Villa Quesada, a Costa Rican town at the edge of a wide jungle belt along Costa Rica's frontier with Nicaragua. The attack was launched at 6:35 a. m. (EST).

Lord's Day Program Asked by Methodists

The 350 churches in the New York Conference of the Methodist Church have been called by conference leaders to plan a Lord's Day Observance Jan. 16.

The Rev. George R. Skaggs, pastor of the Federated Church in Kerhonkson, chairman of the Conference Committee on Lord's Day Observance, cites the growing tendency to disregard Sunday as the Lord's Day and declares, "We feel that the church is challenged to educate its people in the values and uses of the Lord's Day. There is a distinctiveness in this day which we are in danger of losing unless we reemphasize its values."

Each minister has been asked to preach a sermon on the observance of Sunday as the Lord's Day and to plan a program in the church school.

Stang Proclaims Week for Thrift

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced a proclamation in behalf of National Thrift Week, and urged "our citizens to cooperate in its observance."

"The system of free, private enterprise in the United States enables every American to exercise the right to choose the way in which he earns his livlihood," and the welfare of the nation is furthered "by the practice of thrift by individuals in the conduct of their own lives, and the exercise of public office," he said.

THE ABILITY of the national economy "to grow and prosper is rooted in the savings of individuals, who practice thrift," he said. This is true, he noted, whether the savings are "invested in the financial institutions of this country, or in the securities of our free private industry and business, on in the savings bonds of our government."

Benjamin Franklin, he said, advocated and practiced thrift, and Jan. 17 marks the 249th anniversary of his birth. Considered "The Father of Thrift" in the nation, he said, it is fitting to commemorate his birth and follow his example, and he therefore dedicated the week of Jan. 17 through 23 as thrift week.

court a veto by passing a much bigger raise than the President asked, and by refusing to boost postal rates as he requested. Eisenhower vetoed a 5 per cent pay raise bill last year on grounds there was no offsetting revenue gain provided for postal operations.

AT THE SAME TIME, a strong movement gathered force for a pay hike for the lawmakers themselves. Eisenhower gave this a big push in his State of the Union Message last week without naming a specific figure.

Congressional leaders apparently felt the time was ripe to raise House and Senate pay because: (1) Any adverse political effects would be evenly distributed, with Republicans in the White House and Democrats controlling Congress; (2) there are no national elections this year; (3) the bill probably could whip through early in the session—this Congress could avoid a possible charge of shunting aside important business to make way for it.

Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.), prospective chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, announced he would introduce Friday a bill to carry out last year's recommendations of the commission on judicial and congressional salaries.

THIS BODY PROPOSED a $12,500 increase for senators and representatives, to $27,500 a year. It urged similar raises for federal judges.

The congressional pay question was discussed yesterday at a closed conference of all Republican senators.

Afterward conference Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) predicted some measure in this field would pass this year. Another senator who was present said sentiment seemed overwhelming for it.

This source said the conference was told that a secret poll of House members showed two-thirds of the Republicans and three-fourths of the Democrats favored an increase in congressional pay.

The President's message on federal employe pay raises won quick praise from senior members of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Musicians' Union Arranges Program At Area Infirmary

Kingston Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, currently busy with free entertainment at area institutions, has an engagement Sunday at the recently-opened Ulster County Infirmary for the Aged Chronically Ill, which is a bit out of the ordinary.

The soloist will bring his own piano, according to Pete Ferraro chairman of the union's committee on arrangements, who gave this version of Sunday's date:

We billed Dixie Brand, pianist-composer to entertain, but the infirmary lacked a piano. This was no handicap as things worked out. A drummer with an honorary card in Local 215 offered to send his Spinet around.

THEN THE PROGRAM broadened. There was a request for the piano donor to drop around himself and sing.

And, who is the piano owner? County Judge John M. Cashin. What will he sing? Well, that probably will be up to Dixie, who knows the repertoire of his fellow union brother. One thing certain, the Judge probably will sandwich in the railroad worker number as a community sing feature for audience participation.

Sunday's program will be through the courtesy of the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industry, Ferraro said. But, of course, Judge Cashin, being an honorary member of Local 215, won't come in for any cash for his singing—or his piano either.

FERRARO AND the rest of the musicians are sure the Judge will make his usual hit as a singer, but they're just waiting for him to go on one of their programs as a drummer, and they'll furnish the equipment.

McCarthy Threatened

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) returned from an undisclosed mission yesterday and learned his next door neighbor had reported a telephone warning that the senator would be "blown up." A police guard was stationed near the McCarthy home, one of a row of houses joined together. The neighbor, Mrs. George W. Ennis, told newsmen a "man with a foreign-sounding voice" called and told her: "We want you to vacate the premises. We're going to blow up Sen. Joe McCarthy." McCarthy said he believed "some crackpot" made the call.

Thomas Yerry, Jr., 18, of Union street, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Harold E. Macholdt of the town of Ulster this morning on a charge of grand larceny first degree in the theft of a 1951 jeep truck.

He waived examination and was held for appearance before the grand jury.

Yerry was arrested by Kingston city police yesterday and turned over to Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly, Bureau of Criminal Investigation, state police.

Yerry was charged with grand larceny second degree upon arrest but the charge was changed to first degree because the value of the truck is more than $500.

August Bergemann of High Falls reported the truck missing at 5 a. m. yesterday. It was recovered a short time later by city police who found it parked on East Union street near Chambers street.

Woman Is Suing For 1953 Fall

Alleging she fell over a defective doorstep on September 12, 1953 when she visited the premises of William Sondak, her father-in-law, for the purpose of looking at a bungalow for her parents, Mrs. Beverly Sondak of Kerhonkson brings an action to recover for injuries which she suffered at that time.

Mrs. Sondak claims she sustained a broken ankle when she fell over a defect in construction on the permises. She alleges there was a defect in the construction of the foundation and the door sill and that her injuries were caused by the negligence of the defendant while she was free from negligence.

While Mrs. Beverly Sondak claims the accident was due to the negligence of the defendant, William Sondak, he defends the action on the grounds the condition had existed for some 12 years and no one had ever been injured before and he claims the plaintiff was injured through her own negligence.

IT IS CHARGED that just prior to the accident her small child had begun to cry when a toy was taken away and in her haste to get into the house and quiet the child she did not exercise due care.

Philip Korn appears for Mrs. Sondak and her husband, Sol Sondak, and Sidney Applebaum appears of counsel for E. Edan Spencer, attorney of record for defendant, in the action on trial in Supreme Court before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth and a jury.

A negligence action brought by Kenneth Bonville and another against Textile Motor Freight and another, was announced as settled. N. LeVan Haver for plaintiff and Stanley Johnson and Thomas C. Cusack for defendants.

Also settled was No. 224, Herbert Panitch against Jacob Manowitz and another, a negligence action. Seymour Krieger for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants, and No. 226, Fannie Gambino against John Hollesen and another, negligence. Schirmer and Carnright for plaintiff and Cusack and Shumate for defendants.

Bellevue Hospital psychiatric reports on the women were not made public at today's court session.

Tree Limb Falls

Police headquarters recorded "several calls" shortly before midnight reporting the fallen limb. Both streets were blocked and Officers Francis Buchanan and William Synder were dispatched to the intersection to handle traffic.

President Says

June or July, as in the past, the committee is proposing a September session. The Democrats have tentatively set Aug. 27 for their convention.

The President, without disclosing whether he plans to seek a second term, said he believes it would be foolish to drag out the campaign after the convention. He touched off a roar of laughter by characterizing it as bosh that anyone would get the impression he plans to run again because he favors a short campaign.

ATOMIC WEAPONS — Eisenhower said that normally he would not favor the use of atomic weapons on a tactical basis in what he referred to as a police action war. He was talking about a small war—something far short of a general conflict.

SECURITY PROGRAM — As for the administration's general security program covering government employes — a program which Democrats in Congress have criticized sharply — the President said in response to a question that he does not see at this time how a review of the program by a special commission could be in any way helpful.

Eisenhower went on to say that a unit has been set up in the Justice Department to keep a constant watch over the program and said he feels that is adequate. He added, however, he would call for creation of a special commission if he should become convinced that one is needed.

NIAGARA FALLS — Asked whether he favors public or private development of Niagara Falls power, the President replied that in his opinion that is a matter for the state of New York to handle.

At the outset of the news conference the President remarked with a smile that he had not had an opportunity to wish newsmen a happy new year and wanted to do so.

Then he took brief note of the dispute between Costa Rica and Nicaragua, saying that a commission picked by the organization of American States had left early this morning for the scene of the trouble to make an investigation. Eisenhower added he would have no further comment pending the outcome of that inquiry.

The first question put to the President dealt with the Ladejinsky case and a good half of the 30-minute news conference was taken up by subsequent discussion of that matter.

Plane Downed

A command spokesman said the superior fire power of the government's forces was the principal factor in the withdrawal of the rebels from their outlying positions.

There was no immediate mention of casualties.

President Jose Figueres' government had promised decisive action today to quell the revolt at Villa Quesada, a Costa Rican town at the edge of a wide jungle belt along Costa Rica's frontier with Nicaragua. The attack was launched at 6:35 a. m. (EST).

Lord's Day Program Asked by Methodists

The 350 churches in the New York Conference of the Methodist Church have been called by conference leaders to plan a Lord's Day Observance Jan. 16.

The Rev. George R. Skaggs, pastor of the Federated Church in Kerhonkson, chairman of the Conference Committee on Lord's Day Observance, cites the growing tendency to disregard Sunday as the Lord's Day and declares, "We feel that the church is challenged to educate its people in the values and uses of the Lord's Day. There is a distinctiveness in this day which we are in danger of losing unless we re-emphasize its values."

Each minister has been asked to preach a sermon on the observance of Sunday as the Lord's Day and to plan a program in the church school.

Stang Proclaims Week for Thrift

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced a proclamation in behalf of National Thrift Week, and urged "our citizens to cooperate in its observance."

"The system of free, private enterprise in the United States enables every American to exercise the right to choose the way in which he earns his livlihood," and the welfare of the nation is furthered "by the practice of thrift by individuals in the conduct of their own lives, and the exercise of public office," he said.

THE ABILITY of the national economy "to grow and prosper is rooted in the savings of individuals, who practice thrift," he said. This is true, he noted, whether the savings are "invested in the financial institutions of this country, or in the securities of our free private industry and business, on in the savings bonds of our government."

Benjamin Franklin, he said, advocated and practiced thrift, and Jan. 17 marks the 249th anniversary of his birth. Considered "The Father of Thrift" in the nation, he said, it is fitting to commemorate his birth and follow his example, and he therefore dedicated the week of Jan. 17 through 23 as thrift week.

Congress Seems

court a veto by passing a much bigger raise than the President asked, and by refusing to boost postal rates as he requested. Eisenhower vetoed a 5 per cent pay raise bill last year on grounds there was no offsetting revenue gain provided for postal operations.

AT THE SAME TIME, a strong movement gathered force for a pay hike for the lawmakers themselves. Eisenhower gave this a big push in his State of the Union Message last week without naming a specific figure.

Congressional leaders apparently felt the time was ripe to raise House and Senate pay because: (1) Any adverse political effects would be evenly distributed, with Republicans in the White House and Democrats controlling Congress; (2) there are no national elections this year; (3) the bill probably could whip through early in the session—this Congress could avoid a possible charge of shunting aside important business to make way for it.

Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.), prospective chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, announced he would introduce Friday a bill to carry out last year's recommendations of the commission on judicial and congressional salaries.

THIS BODY PROPOSED a $12,500 increase for senators and representatives, to $27,500 a year. It urged similar raises for federal judges.

The congressional pay question was discussed yesterday at a closed conference of all Republican senators.

Afterward conference Chairman Millikin (R-Colo.) predicted some measure in this field would pass this year. Another senator who was present said sentiment seemed overwhelming for it.

This source said the conference was told that a secret poll of House members showed two-thirds of the Republicans and three-fourths of the Democrats favored an increase in congressional pay.

The President's message on federal employe pay raises won quick praise from senior members of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Musicians' Union ArrangesProgram At Area Infirmary

Kingston Local 215, American Federation of Musicians, currently busy with free entertainment at area institutions, has an engagement Sunday at the recently-opened Ulster County Infirmary for the Aged Chronically Ill, which is a bit out of the ordinary.

The soloist will bring his own piano according to Pete Ferraro chairman of the union's committee on arrangements, who gave this version of Sunday's date:

We billed Dixie Brand, pianist-composer to entertain, but the infirmary lacked a piano. This was no handicap as things worked out. A drummer with an honorary card in Local 215 offered to send his Spinet around.

THEN THE PROGRAM broadened. There was a request for the piano donor to drop around himself and sing.

And, who is the piano owner? County Judge John M. Cashin. What will he sing? Well, that probably will be up to Dixie, who knows the repertoire of his fellow union brother. One thing certain, the Judge probably will sandwich in the railroad worker number as a community sing feature for audience participation.

Sunday's program will be through the courtesy of the Music Performance Trust Fund of the Recording Industry, Ferraro said. But, of course, Judge Cashin, being an honorary member of Local 215, won't come in for any cash for his singing—or his piano either.

FERRARO AND the rest of the musicians are sure the Judge will make his usual hit as a singer, but they're just waiting for him to go on one of their programs as a drummer, and they'll furnish the equipment.

Jacobson, Plant Manager Are Chamber Guests

Samuel K. Jacobson, vice president of F. Jacobsons & Sons, and William W. Ewing, local plant manager, were guests of honor at a luncheon on Monday of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The gathering was one of a series sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce to get acquainted with leaders of local established industries and recognize the importance of their contribution to the economic life in Kingston and the area.

AN INFORMAL discussion brought out the fact that F. Jacobson & Sons plant here was established in 1916 and has operated continuously since that time. At present nearly 300 are employed. Other plants are operated in Troy, N. Y., York, Pa., Salisbury, Md., Charlottesville, N. C. and Seymour, Indiana.

Mr. Jacobson stated that no employes were laid off for lack of work during the 39 years of operation here. However, they find it difficult to produce sufficient volume to meet the demand for the quality shirts manufactured here. It is even necessary to produce the "Excello" brand mens shirts at the Salisbury plant to meet the demand.

THE DISCUSSION brought out the fact that the Jacobson plant here provides steady, year-round employment. Only during the great depression years of the early 1930's was the work week cut below 40 hours and then only for a very short period of time.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, presided at the luncheon. Mayor Frederick H. Stang and Robert Stedge, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were present in addition to the regular members of the board of directors. It is planned to have similar luncheons with other industrial leaders in the future.

F. Coffee Veteran

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—Coffee is important in the Navy. Chief Armand H. Kirouac, chief boatswain's mate, says it saved his life at Pearl Harbor. He went into the galley early to pour some coffee and seven others followed. All men in the crew lounge they left were killed by a Japanese torpedo which struck the old cruiser Helena. Kirouac likes his coffee, especially on December 7.

Wrong Balcony Scene

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—A 50-year-old Indian came to town and electrified pedestrians by skipping from one balcony to another on a hotel building. He want back to his room, reappeared on the balcony and made two five-foot leaps. On the third try he missed and ended up in the hospital.

Two Local Men Resign Service

Two Kingston men, John J. Campbell and James V. Geary, were among ten men to quit the Internal Revenue Service in the Albany district rather than accept transfer elsewhere, it was learned today.

Both local men resigned last Friday, a spokesman for the area office said. Geary is to do tax consultant work and Campbell announced no immediate plans.

Direstor R. J. Ratteree, director of the Albany district said that of 45 collection officers originally slated for transfer, 29 had "presumably" accepted their assignments and reported for duty recently, the Albany Times-Union reported.

An order issued late in November indicated that readjustments were to be made and those in overstaffed districts would be required to go elsewhere. Internal Revenue employes sought a restraining order, but it was refused on the grounds that no proof had been submitted to show that their rights had been violated.

The 19-county Albany district now has 60 collection officers.

Octagonal Home

Covert, Mich. (AP) — The Charles Robinson family lives in an octagonal home which has been a landmark here for 66 years. The barn is also eight-sided. No one is quite sure why it was built that way, but Mrs. John Seplam, whose uncle, Orlo Stattuck, built the house, says that "Uncle Orlo had a theory that there was less wall space in a round-shaped than a rectangular house." Therefore, she reasons, he might have figured it was cheaper to heat.

Jacobson, Plant Manager Are Chamber Guests

Samuel K. Jacobson, vice president of F. Jacobsons & Sons, and William W. Ewing, local plant manager, were guests of honor at a luncheon on Monday of the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The gathering was one of a series sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce to get acquainted with leaders of local established industries and recognize the importance of their contribution to the economic life in Kingston and the area.

AN INFORMAL discussion brought out the fact that F. Jacobson & Sons plant here was established in 1916 and has operated continuously since that time. At present nearly 300 are employed. Other plants are operated in Troy, N. Y., York, Pa., Salisbury, Md., Charlottesville, N. C. and Seymour, Indiana.

Mr. Jacobson stated that no employes were laid off for lack of work during the 39 years of operation here. However, they find it difficult to produce sufficient volume to meet the demand for the quality shirts manufactured here. It is even necessary to produce the "Excello" brand mens shirts at the Salisbury plant to meet the demand.

THE DISCUSSION brought out the fact that the Jacobson plant here provides steady, year-round employment. Only during the great depression years of the early 1930's was the work week cut below 40 hours and then only for a very short period of time.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, presided at the luncheon. Mayor Frederick H. Stang and Robert Stedge, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were present in addition to the regular members of the board of directors. It is planned to have similar luncheons with other industrial leaders in the future.

Killer Says Death Is Desirable Fun For Psychopaths

Huntsville, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP)—A convicted killer died in the state's electric chair today after telling his executioners that capital punishment, "laid at the feet of psychopaths," becomes desirable adventure.

Donald Hawkins Brown, 24, was disappointed that the prosecuting attorney and jurors who convicted him were not present, witnesses said.

Brown was convicted of shooting Edwin Campbell, 26, a loan collector, on New Year's Eve 1952 and burning the body. Campbell, testimony revealed, had been trying to collect back payments on Brown's automobile.

"I DON'T SEE the district attorney of any of the prosecutors here," he said with a half-smile when brought into the death chamber. Then he handed newsman Don Reid of Huntsville a note he had promised earlier, closed his eyes and walked to the electric chair.

The first electric charge struck him at 12:04 a. m. and a prison physician pronounced him dead two minutes later. His young wife, mother of their two small daughters, waited at the prison gates with his mother.

BROWN HAD ASKED that Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and his staff of Dallas, the detectives who arrested him, and his trial jurors attend his execution.

"This is their party, you know," he said yesterday when told the pardon board had refused clemency. "I hope they will enjoy it."

He said he would have a "prepared statement to read to them." It was the note he handed to Reid as he stepped to the chair. In it he questioned the wisdom of the death sentence and said it "made martyrs of these men and placed at the feet of psychopaths an adventure to be desired."

"Capital punishment  has become the great issue here where I have lived among the dead," the note said. He added that if the death sentence was to be feared by criminals and the public and was to be a "deterrent to crime," then the public and prosecutors "should be here."

Shops Are Attacked

Tunis, Jan. 12 (AP)—Groups of young Moslems attacked several Jewish shops in Tunis yesterday, forcing the merchants to close their doors and call for police. No one was hurt nor was there any damage. At Medenine, in South Tunisia, the Jewish Cemetery was "desecrated" by attackers who fled before police arrived.

Denial of Odor Basis for Suit

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mushroom raising is no bed of roses, says the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), and it doesn't smell like one, either.

The commission filed false advertising charges today against the Washington Mushroom Industries Inc. of Seattle, a firm which sells mushroom spawn and fertilizer.

The FTC challenged the company's claim that mushroom beds have no odor and can be placed satisfactorily in a spare room. These beds produce "a very disagreeable odor," in the view of the FTC lawyers.

NEITHER IS IT true, said FTC, that mushroom growing is a "pleasant, easy occupation," providing a substantial income even to those without experience; nor that the firm's mushroom spawn will produce "extraordinary financial returns" to buyers.

On the contrary, the commission said, successful mushroom operations require a high degree of skill and amateurs "cannot earn extraordinary profits, particularly in view of the company's charges for spawn and fertilizer."

THE FTC COMPLAINT charged that the firm misrepresented in claiming it has 14,000 customers all over the world and that it only takes new members from time to time, depending on the quantity of mushrooms sent to it.

The company and its president, Arthur T. Lelles, were given 20 days to answer the complaint. A hearing was scheduled for March 1 in Seattle.

Back to Practice

HAROLD NEWMAN DDS, who practiced here from 1946 to 1951, when he was recalled to active service at Naval Air Station, Whidbey Island, Washington, for 21 months, has returned to this city and opened an office at 317 Wall street. He said he is limiting his practice to orthodontics in which he did two years post graduate work at the College of Dentistry, Ohio State University. (Lipgar Photo)

Dr. Bonnell May Be Moderator

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—A movement was developing today to name Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, widely known radio minister, as the head of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Members of the big Presbyteries (districts) of New York and Los Angeles met this week and named Dr. Bonnell as their choice for the next moderator of the 2½-million-member denomination.

The election will be held this spring.

Dr. Millard G. Roberts, a New York pastor and spokesman for the Presbytery, said:

"In view of the broad sentiment already expressed, it would appear Dr. Bonnell will have the nationwide support of the denomination."

Dr. Bonnell, whose weekly sermon, "pilgrimage," over the American Broadcasting Co. network is heard by millions, is pastor of New York's historic Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The church has a congregation of 2,500.

Present moderator is the Rev. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn.

Helen Hayes to Talk On March of Dimes

Helen Hayes, national chairman of Women's Activities for The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will be visited by Edward R. Murrow of CBS-TV, on his Person to Person show Friday, 10:30 to 11 p. m. Miss Hayes and her playwright husband, Charles MacArthur, will welcome Murrow to their Nyack home.

"Because Miss Hayes is certain to talk of her work in the 1955 March of Dimes, this show will be of special interest to all of us," says Mrs. Ruth Ford, publicity chairman for Ulster County Chapter.

Person to Person is carried by WKNY-TV, Channel 66.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hasbrouck Engine Company No. 1, Inc., will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in Connelly.

Protestants Get 20 Million Fund

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—In a casually worded two-sentence letter, John D. Rockefeller Jr. has given 20 million dollars' worth of securities to aid Protestant theological education in the United States.

The gift was made yesterday to the Sealantic Fund Inc., a philanthropic corporation Rockefeller established in 1938.

Rockefeller sent this note to the fund's trustees:

Gentlemen:

I AM GIVING your corporation as of this date securities having a present market value of approximately $20,000,000. The purpose of the gift is to strengthen and develop Protestant theological education in this country.

Very sincerely,

John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The money — probably the largest single grant ever made for religious training—presumably will be used to strengthen and expand the programs of theological schools.

BEFORE YESTERDAY'S gift, the financier and philanthropist had donated more than 245 million dollars in his larger known benefactions, plus substantial gifts that never were made public. The gifts included at least 30 million dollars for religious causes.

Until now, the Sealantic Fund was a relatively small corporation administering some of Rockefeller's gifts.

Says Action to Come

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck said today the Republican majorities in the Legislature would "act to continue residential rent control by the state." The speaker said he was making the announcement, after talking it over with other Republican leaders, "to reassure tenants and to dispel baseless rumors" that rent controls would be allowed to lapse upon the expiration of the present law next June 30.

Dark Is Studied

Houston, Jan. 11 (AP)—The City Council today takes up the question of just how dark it should be inside a tavern. The council takes up an ordinance that would require all taverns be more brightly lighted. Electrical engineers say the candlepower required to light an office adequately is 40. Grand jurors have maintained that potential witnesses often claim that a tavern's gloom kept them from seeing who committed a crime.

Mrs. Niver Dies

Beacon, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Luyster Niver, 86, oldest member of the Dutchess County Republican Committee both in age and length of service, died yesterday in Highland Hospital here. She was a founder of the Beacon Women's Republican Club and served as its president several times, the last time in 1954. She also was active in women's Republican organizations throughout the state.

Killer Says Death Is Desirable Fun For Psychopaths

Huntsville, Tex., Jan. 12 (AP)—A convicted killer died in the state's electric chair today after telling his executioners that capital punishment, "laid at the feet of psychopaths," becomes desirable adventure.

Donald Hawkins Brown, 24, was disappointed that the prosecuting attorney and jurors who convicted him were not present, witnesses said.

Brown was convicted of shooting Edwin Campbell, 26, a loan collector, on New Year's Eve 1952 and burning the body. Campbell, testimony revealed, had been trying to collect back payments on Brown's automobile.

"I DON'T SEE the district attorney of any of the prosecutors here," he said with a half-smile when brought into the death chamber. Then he handed newsman Don Reid of Huntsville a note he had promised earlier, closed his eyes and walked to the electric chair.

The first electric charge struck him at 12:04 a. m. and a prison physician pronounced him dead two minutes later. His young wife, mother of their two small daughters, waited at the prison gates with his mother.

BROWN HAD ASKED that Dist. Atty. Henry Wade and his staff of Dallas, the detectives who arrested him, and his trial jurors attend his execution.

"This is their party, you know," he said yesterday when told the pardon board had refused clemency. "I hope they will enjoy it."

He said he would have a "prepared statement to read to them." It was the note he handed to Reid as he stepped to the chair. In it he questioned the wisdom of the death sentence and said it "made martyrs of these men and placed at the feet of psychopaths an adventure to be desired."

"Capital punishment  has become the great issue here where I have lived among the dead," the note said. He added that if the death sentence was to be feared by criminals and the public and was to be a "deterrent to crime," then the public and prosecutors "should be here."

Shops Are Attacked

Tunis, Jan. 12 (AP)—Groups of young Moslems attacked several Jewish shops in Tunis yesterday, forcing the merchants to close their doors and call for police. No one was hurt nor was there any damage. At Medenine, in South Tunisia, the Jewish Cemetery was "desecrated" by attackers who fled before police arrived.

Denial of Odor Basis for Suit

Washington, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mushroom raising is no bed of roses, says the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), and it doesn't smell like one, either.

The commission filed false advertising charges today against the Washington Mushroom Industries Inc. of Seattle, a firm which sells mushroom spawn and fertilizer.

The FTC challenged the company's claim that mushroom beds have no odor and can be placed satisfactorily in a spare room. These beds produce "a very disagreeable odor," in the view of the FTC lawyers.

NEITHER IS IT true, said FTC, that mushroom growing is a "pleasant, easy occupation," providing a substantial income even to those without experience; nor that the firm's mushroom spawn will produce "extraordinary financial returns" to buyers.

On the contrary, the commission said, successful mushroom operations require a high degree of skill and amateurs "cannot earn extraordinary profits, particularly in view of the company's charges for spawn and fertilizer."

THE FTC COMPLAINT charged that the firm misrepresented in claiming it has 14,000 customers all over the world and that it only takes new members from time to time, depending on the quantity of mushrooms sent to it.

The company and its president, Arthur T. Lelles, were given 20 days to answer the complaint. A hearing was scheduled for March 1 in Seattle.

Back to Practice

HAROLD NEWMAN DDS, who practiced here from 1946 to 1951, when he was recalled to active service at Naval Air Station, Whidbey Island, Washington, for 21 months, has returned to this city and opened an office at 317 Wall street. He said he is limiting his practice to orthodontics in which he did two years post graduate work at the College of Dentistry, Ohio State University. (Lipgar Photo)

Dr. Bonnell May Be Moderator

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—A movement was developing today to name Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, widely known radio minister, as the head of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Members of the big Presbyteries (districts) of New York and Los Angeles met this week and named Dr. Bonnell as their choice for the next moderator of the 2½-million-member denomination.

The election will be held this spring.

Dr. Millard G. Roberts, a New York pastor and spokesman for the Presbytery, said:

"In view of the broad sentiment already expressed, it would appear Dr. Bonnell will have the nationwide support of the denomination."

Dr. Bonnell, whose weekly sermon, "pilgrimage," over the American Broadcasting Co. network is heard by millions, is pastor of New York's historic Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The church has a congregation of 2,500.

Present moderator is the Rev. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, president of Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn.

Helen Hayes to Talk On March of Dimes

Helen Hayes, national chairman of Women's Activities for The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will be visited by Edward R. Murrow of CBS-TV, on his Person to Person show Friday, 10:30 to 11 p. m. Miss Hayes and her playwright husband, Charles MacArthur, will welcome Murrow to their Nyack home.

"Because Miss Hayes is certain to talk of her work in the 1955 March of Dimes, this show will be of special interest to all of us," says Mrs. Ruth Ford, publicity chairman for Ulster County Chapter.

Person to Person is carried by WKNY-TV, Channel 66.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hasbrouck Engine Company No. 1, Inc., will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. in Connelly.

Protestants Get 20 Million Fund

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—In a casually worded two-sentence letter, John D. Rockefeller Jr. has given 20 million dollars' worth of securities to aid Protestant theological education in the United States.

The gift was made yesterday to the Sealantic Fund Inc., a philanthropic corporation Rockefeller established in 1938.

Gentlemen:

I AM GIVING your corporation as of this date securities having a present market value of approximately $20,000,000. The purpose of the gift is to strengthen and develop Protestant theological education in this country.

Very sincerely,
John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The money — probably the largest single grant ever made for religious training—presumably will be used to strengthen and expand the programs of theological schools.

BEFORE YESTERDAY'S gift, the financier and philanthropist had donated more than 245 million dollars in his larger known benefactions, plus substantial gifts that never were made public. The gifts included at least 30 million dollars for religious causes.

Until now, the Sealantic Fund was a relatively small corporation administering some of Rockefeller's gifts.

Says Action to Come

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck said today the Republican majorities in the Legislature would "act to continue residential rent control by the state." The speaker said he was making the announcement, after talking it over with other Republican leaders, "to reassure tenants and to dispel baseless rumors" that rent controls would be allowed to lapse upon the expiration of the present law next June 30.

Dark Is Studied

Houston, Jan. 11 (AP)—The City Council today takes up the question of just how dark it should be inside a tavern. The council takes up an ordinance that would require all taverns be more brightly lighted. Electrical engineers say the candlepower required to light an office adequately is 40. Grand jurors have maintained that potential witnesses often claim that a tavern's gloom kept them from seeing who committed a crime.

Mrs. Niver Dies

Beacon, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Luyster Niver, 86, oldest member of the Dutchess County Republican Committee both in age and length of service, died yesterday in Highland Hospital here. She was a founder of the Beacon Women's Republican Club and served as its president several times, the last time in 1954. She also was active in women's Republican organizations throughout the state.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Local Artist Has Paintings in Israel

Woodstock, Jan. 11 — Announcement has been made of the establishment of an American Wing in the Israel National Art Museum, in Jerusalem, according to a feature picture story in the New York Tribune This Week magazine, by Emily Genauer, Sunday, Jan. 9, Sidney Laufman, noted Woodstock artist is one of the Americans whose paintings are included in the exhibition. His still life, which was reproduced in the Tribune magazine is entitled Green Table.

"For the first time," Miss Genauer reports, "modern art from the United States has been honored with galleries of its own in a foreign museum. The nucleus collection is a gift of 12 important paintings by top American artists, presented to the museum by Mrs. Rebecca Shulman through Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, of which she is national president.

"The paintings have singular importance. Some depict physical aspects of America which will doubtless prove intriguing to Israelis, many of whom have family bonds with this country . . . .

"They may also help put an end to the widespread European notion that we are crass materialists with no real interest in things cultural. The pictures, soon to be supplemented with other gifts from the same source to museums in Haifa and Tel Aviv, are part of the huge collection of art assembled by the late Herman Shulman, husband of the doner, and a widely-known, highly successful lawyer and businessman. By the artists of America he will be remembered as one of their staunchest, most enthusiastic and generous patrons years before they had won broad general recognition."

Military Records

Lansing, Mich. (AP)—Local people, led by a housewife with a son in the armed forces, have sent more than 3,000 phonograph records to servicemen in Germany, Iceland, Korea and Alaska. Three phonographs and some 1,500 books and magazines also were donated in a "Discs for Doughfeet" campaign started by Mrs. Fred Vanderlip. A newspaper and radio station joined in the campaign. At one point, the air force said it might not be able to furnish space on a plane to transport the gifts. Mrs. Vanderlip offered to pay the $300 shipping charges and then take a job until she could make it up again. With that word, the air force sent a special plane to Lansing to pick up records and books.

Negligence Action Reported Settled

There being no other case ready for trial Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth adjourned court until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when No. 146 will be moved for trial. A jury in that action has been selected. The action is a negligence case brought by Sol Sondak and another against William Sondak. Philip Korn for plaintiff and E. Edan Spencer for defendant.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

There is something facinating about living near the river and creek such as our Rondout creek. There is always something going on, on the water. Comes winter and talk always seems to turn to the famous Ice King, the old Norwich sidewheeler. The Norwich was built back in 1836 for passenger service between New York and Norwich, Conn. As Historian, Judge Clearwater said, in his day, she was known as the "palatial passenger steamer" between Kingston and New York. The reason the Norwich was brought to our river was because she was found too small for the Sound service, and so ran here for so long that she enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest steamboat in the world in service. The normal speed of such steamers as the Norwich, it is said, was about eight miles an hour, and so the schedule time between Kingston and New York was about 12 hours. At the time, back in the early years, the river trips were made by night, later the Day Line started.

After running nearly 90 years the old Norwich was sold to Michael Tucker of Port Ewen in November of 1923 by the Cornell Steamboat Co. For several years this famous old sidewheeler had been berthed in the winter slip of the Mary Powell off Port Ewen. Perhaps if historians at the time had been interested they might have made that part of Port Ewen a Marine Museum of sidewheelers. Folks could have come up and down the Hudson river, stop off for refreshments and spend their time and money visiting the various old sidewheelers. The Norwich was as popular as a Hollywood star in her own right on the river during the days of the Hudson-Fulton celebration of 1909 when she took part in the magnificent parade of crafts up and down the Hudson river. That was the time the replica of the Clermont, another sidewheeler, in fact, I take it the first sidewheeler, up the Hudson. Of course I mean, Robert Fulton's original Clermont. We only saw in our day, the replica which was especially built for the Hudson-Fulton celebration and for years was in the lagoon at Kingston Point Park until it fell apart with its machinery disappearing mysteriously.

The Norwich, in her some century on our waters not only did passenger service, but also towed barges up and down the Hudson river for the Cornell line. Another sidewheeler which also towed barges at the time was the Oswego. I know the old boatmen will never let me get away with this column if I do not mention that the Norwich was known as the old Ice King and why. The following was an event which used to send folks from all around downtown to watch as it was whispered along the grapevine, "The Norwich is breaking up ice." The next question would be "Where?" and down to the spot folks would go to watch the operation. The Norwich was a sturdy constructed sidewheeler especially made so that she could run her bow right up on the ice pack and the weight of her would cause the ice to break up under her.

If you really want to wind an old timer up, just ask anyone of them around the Rondout section who remembers if he had ever seen the Norwich break up ice. The Norwich had no trouble breaking up six inch or thicker ice and during the winter she was used to break up the ice packs all along the Hudson river. We just do not seem to have that sort of ice anymore, and the youngsters cannot believe these stories, so I refer all unbelievers to old local newspapers.

Local Artist Has Paintings in Israel

Woodstock, Jan. 11 — Announcement has been made of the establishment of an American Wing in the Israel National Art Museum, in Jerusalem, according to a feature picture story in the New York Tribune This Week magazine, by Emily Genauer, Sunday, Jan. 9, Sidney Laufman, noted Woodstock artist is one of the Americans whose paintings are included in the exhibition. His still life, which was reproduced in the Tribune magazine is entitled Green Table.

"For the first time," Miss Genauer reports, "modern art from the United States has been honored with galleries of its own in a foreign museum. The nucleus collection is a gift of 12 important paintings by top American artists, presented to the museum by Mrs. Rebecca Shulman through Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, of which she is national president.

"The paintings have singular importance. Some depict physical aspects of America which will doubtless prove intriguing to Israelis, many of whom have family bonds with this country . . . .

"They may also help put an end to the widespread European notion that we are crass materialists with no real interest in things cultural. The pictures, soon to be supplemented with other gifts from the same source to museums in Haifa and Tel Aviv, are part of the huge collection of art assembled by the late Herman Shulman, husband of the doner, and a widely-known, highly successful lawyer and businessman. By the artists of America he will be remembered as one of their staunchest, most enthusiastic and generous patrons years before they had won broad general recognition."

Military Records

Lansing, Mich. (AP)—Local people, led by a housewife with a son in the armed forces, have sent more than 3,000 phonograph records to servicemen in Germany, Iceland, Korea and Alaska. Three phonographs and some 1,500 books and magazines also were donated in a "Discs for Doughfeet" campaign started by Mrs. Fred Vanderlip. A newspaper and radio station joined in the campaign. At one point, the air force said it might not be able to furnish space on a plane to transport the gifts. Mrs. Vanderlip offered to pay the $300 shipping charges and then take a job until she could make it up again. With that word, the air force sent a special plane to Lansing to pick up records and books.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

There is something facinating about living near the river and creek such as our Rondout creek. There is always something going on, on the water. Comes winter and talk always seems to turn to the famous Ice King, the old Norwich sidewheeler. The Norwich was built back in 1836 for passenger service between New York and Norwich, Conn. As Historian, Judge Clearwater said, in his day, she was known as the "palatial passenger steamer" between Kingston and New York. The reason the Norwich was brought to our river was because she was found too small for the Sound service, and so ran here for so long that she enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest steamboat in the world in service. The normal speed of such steamers as the Norwich, it is said, was about eight miles an hour, and so the schedule time between Kingston and New York was about 12 hours. At the time, back in the early years, the river trips were made by night, later the Day Line started.

After running nearly 90 years the old Norwich was sold to Michael Tucker of Port Ewen in November of 1923 by the Cornell Steamboat Co. For several years this famous old sidewheeler had been berthed in the winter slip of the Mary Powell off Port Ewen. Perhaps if historians at the time had been interested they might have made that part of Port Ewen a Marine Museum of sidewheelers. Folks could have come up and down the Hudson river, stop off for refreshments and spend their time and money visiting the various old sidewheelers. The Norwich was as popular as a Hollywood star in her own right on the river during the days of the Hudson-Fulton celebration of 1909 when she took part in the magnificent parade of crafts up and down the Hudson river. That was the time the replica of the Clermont, another sidewheeler, in fact, I take it the first sidewheeler, up the Hudson. Of course I mean, Robert Fulton's original Clermont. We only saw in our day, the replica which was especially built for the Hudson-Fulton celebration and for years was in the lagoon at Kingston Point Park until it fell apart with its machinery disappearing mysteriously.

The Norwich, in her some century on our waters not only did passenger service, but also towed barges up and down the Hudson river for the Cornell line. Another sidewheeler which also towed barges at the time was the Oswego. I know the old boatmen will never let me get away with this column if I do not mention that the Norwich was known as the old Ice King and why. The following was an event which used to send folks from all around downtown to watch as it was whispered along the grapevine, "The Norwich is breaking up ice." The next question would be "Where?" and down to the spot folks would go to watch the operation. The Norwich was a sturdy constructed sidewheeler especially made so that she could run her bow right up on the ice pack and the weight of her would cause the ice to break up under her.

If you really want to wind an old timer up, just ask anyone of them around the Rondout section who remembers if he had ever seen the Norwich break up ice. The Norwich had no trouble breaking up six inch or thicker ice and during the winter she was used to break up the ice packs all along the Hudson river. We just do not seem to have that sort of ice anymore, and the youngsters cannot believe these stories, so I refer all unbelievers to old local newspapers.

A PRESENT OF NEGLIGIBLE COST

A man writes me: "One of the men in my office has asked me to send for a gadget which he saw at our house recently, for his wife. The cost is negligible, but I am wondering whether I should have this sent to his house COD or whether I may have it sent to his wife as a little present. These people have been very kind to me on several occasions when my wife was out of town, and I would like to send the gadget to the wife if that would be all right. My own wife thinks that it would be wrong to do this and will only cause them embarrassment rather than pleasure. Will you please give me your opinion?"

Since you say it is of small value, send it as a gift from you to the husband, so that he may give it to his wife.

When Guest Suddenly Feels Ill

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it considered necessary, for the sake of being thought a gentleman, for a man to go out with the young woman he has taken to the theatre if she is feeling ill and has asked to be excused to go out to the dressing room? This situation came up the other evening and I didn't know what to do. The young woman wasn't so ill as to need assistance.

Answer: Since she was not in need of assistance and did not ask for any, you were quite right to let her go alone.

Who Sends the Invitations?

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I are to be married within six months of each other. Our parents are dead and we live alone. We have two other older married sisters and a married brother. In whose name should the wedding invitations be sent out. My sister will be married first and I will probably live with the "newlyweds" until my marriage.

Answer: The invitations to your sister's wedding would be sent out by the oldest member of your family, who is considered the nominal head of the family, and the invitations to your wedding could be sent out by your newly married sister and her husband with whom you will be living at that time.

A PRESENT OF NEGLIGIBLE COST

A man writes me: "One of the men in my office has asked me to send for a gadget which he saw at our house recently, for his wife. The cost is negligible, but I am wondering whether I should have this sent to his house COD or whether I may have it sent to his wife as a little present. These people have been very kind to me on several occasions when my wife was out of town, and I would like to send the gadget to the wife if that would be all right. My own wife thinks that it would be wrong to do this and will only cause them embarrassment rather than pleasure. Will you please give me your opinion?"

Since you say it is of small value, send it as a gift from you to the husband, so that he may give it to his wife.

When Guest Suddenly Feels Ill

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it considered necessary, for the sake of being thought a gentleman, for a man to go out with the young woman he has taken to the theatre if she is feeling ill and has asked to be excused to go out to the dressing room? This situation came up the other evening and I didn't know what to do. The young woman wasn't so ill as to need assistance.

Answer: Since she was not in need of assistance and did not ask for any, you were quite right to let her go alone.

Who Sends the Invitations?

Dear Mrs. Post: My sister and I are to be married within six months of each other. Our parents are dead and we live alone. We have two other older married sisters and a married brother. In whose name should the wedding invitations be sent out. My sister will be married first and I will probably live with the "newlyweds" until my marriage.

Answer: The invitations to your sister's wedding would be sent out by the oldest member of your family, who is considered the nominal head of the family, and the invitations to your wedding could be sent out by your newly married sister and her husband with whom you will be living at that time.

Indications Are Fruit Prices May Be Close to '54 Levels

Fruit growers in Ulster county can expect about the same demand for deciduous fruits in 1955 as they met in 1954, William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent, said today.

In reporting some of the informative given him by Cornell economist B. A. Dominick Jr., Palmer said little change in production costs is expected in the coming year. Demand and supply indicate fruit prices may be fairly close to 1954 levels, he said, although the direction of price changes for individual fruits will be influenced by weather and yields.

TOTAL PRODUCTION and marketing costs this year will remain at about last year's level, he said. Labor will continue to be an expensive item.

'Efficiency in use of labor and in over-all production is the keyword for the coming year," he said.

Palmer reported the following outlook for major fruits:

Apples—Total crop in commercial production areas of the United States will be about the same size as last year. Larger crops are forecast for Washington, Michigan and most of the New England states, where weather was unfavorable last year. Smaller crops are seen in other states, paticularly those centering on the Appalchian area, where production was high in 1954.

PEACHES — Production in New York state will at least equal the one-million bushel crop of 1954. With increases in the central and western states, the 1955 national crop may surpass that of last year.

Pears—The long-term downward trend in pear production is expected to continue, but the 1955 crop for New York state may be somewhat larger than the 285,000 bushels of 1954. Production for the country as a whole may also increase slightly.

Grapes—The 1955 grape crop in the state probably will not measure up to the 76,800 tons produced in 1954. The crop last year in the six major states producing New York type grapes was two per cent below 1953, but 30 per cent above the average of the last 10 years. Nationally, the 1955 crop will be moderately larger than in 1954.

Sweet cherries—The crop may be as large as the 1954 crop of 4,200 tons produced in this state. Production of sweet cherries probably will be moderately larger for the nation as a whole.

Lions See Film Showing Drastic Effects of H-Bomb

Forcefully bringing home the terrible effects of a hydrogen explosion, the film was released by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Federal Civil Defense organization and brought here by the Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Council through the assistance of Congressman J. Ernest Wharton and State Senator Arthur H. Wicks. It will be shown to various county organizations to stimulate interest in Civil Defense.

Major John G. M. Hilton, CD operations coordinator, made a short introductory talk, pointing out that the film shows, in a dramatic way, the principal reason for maintaining an active and alert Civil Defense organization. Major Hilton was introduced by Hubert Richter, Lions Club program chairman.

Forcefully bringing home the terrible effects of a hydrogen explosion, the film was released by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Federal Civil Defense organization and brought here by the Ulster-Kingston Civil Defense Council through the assistance of Congressman J. Ernest Wharton and State Senator Arthur H. Wicks. It will be shown to various county organizations to stimulate interest in Civil Defense.

Major John G. M. Hilton, CD operations coordinator, made a short introductory talk, pointing out that the film shows, in a dramatic way, the principal reason for maintaining an active and alert Civil Defense organization. Major Hilton was introduced by Hubert Richter, Lions Club program chairman.

Policeman Fed Vanderbilt's Wife, Daughter in 1953

New York, Jan. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt says the dinner she and her daughter ate on Thanksgiving Day in 1953 came from $5 given them by a kindly New York city policeman.

Testifying yesterday in her suit for separation from Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., she said she had exhausted her money and had applied for city relief in August of that year.

"I was without funds . . . I had sold my fur coat and pawned my wedding and engagement rings for $450," she stated.

She said she and her daughter by a previous marriage had been eating at a restaurant where she had left her watch to cover the cost of their food. She continued:

"THEY WERE CLOSED on Thanksgiving Day, 1953, so we went to a police station and a policeman gave my daughter and me $5 for food for that day."

Before her marriage to Vanderbilt went on the rocks, she testified, they spent $100,000 a year on living expenses.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, her husband's fifth wife, is suing on grounds of cruelty, abandonment and non-support and asks $1,500 a week alimony. Vanderbilt, who married her in 1948, says he got a Mexican divorce in 1953 and she is no longer his wife.

Donahoe, Child Leave for U. S.

Port Lyautey, Morocco, Jan. 12 (AP)—U. S. Navy Lt. Norman K. "Moose" Donahoe and the baby girl he adopted recently in Greece finally took off here early today for the United States—by way of Ireland.

Donahoe and 17-month-old Roni Marie left Athens last Saturday, hitchhiking their way on military planes to the lieutenant's base at Corpus Christi, Tex. But bad weather over the Azores which blocked all flights stalled them here two days.

The transport which finally took off this morning is flying by way of Shannon Airport, Ireland. It is expected to reach Patuxent Naval Air Station, Md., at noon Thursday.

Results Are 'Excellent'

Taipeh, Formosa, Jan. 12 (AP)—Nationalist China's air force headquarters said its four-engine bombers had "excellent results" in a three-wave attack today on Communist-held Toumen and Tienao Islands. The Nationalists said all planes returned to Formosa, 200 miles south of the islands, despite anti-aircraft fire and Red air force fighters. This was the third straight day's strike against Tienao, which is almost next door to the Nationalists' Tachens, which were attacked by 100 Red planes Monday.

Middies Upset KHS In DUSO Game, 63-55

Maroons Drop Under .500 Mark

It is a familiar sight to see Newburgh Acadamy free wheeling on top with four straight conference victories.

But Kingston High, buried in sixth place, three games behind NFA in the loss column and under the .500 mark for the first time in years, is unbelievable. And it begins to look like this isn't the year for Coach G. Warren Kias' Maroons.

WHILE NEWBURGH was crushing hapless Liberty (0-5) by 86-37 at Newburgh, Middletown's super charged Middie upset Kingston, 63-55, last night on the Middie board.

Maybe it wasn't an upset by this year's standards, but Kingston did have an 8-point lead at one stage of the period. But after the Middies went ahead 34-32 they stayed there.

THE MAROONS outscored Middletown from the field, 24-22, as Coach Markes' cagers picked up 19 free throws on 19 calls against Kingston. The same thing happened to Kingston that happened to five major college teams last night. They scored more fields than the opposition but that bonus rule murdered them.

It was the same way against Newburgh Academy, the locals leading 28-25 in baskets. But the Kiasmen are fouling too much for their own good these days.

And the DUSO menu remains challenging for Kingston. Friday night they have to contend with powerful Ellenville, which knocked off Port Jervis, 69-59, last night to move into second place with a 4-1 record.

SKIP BRODHEAD led Kingston with 21 points last night and Bob Maines hit 12 besides playing another superb rebounding game. Marty Kantrowitz got a starting role and hit for 11 points.

Steve Tompkins was Middletown's big gun with 16 points. Tony Perna, a sub, rimmed 15 and Jerry Nye hit 14.

MICKEY BURKOSKI scored 24 points as NFA butchered the Indians of Liberty. Harold Kaplan had 10, Jack Schoenberger 10 and Bully Huber 11 for the Goldbacks. Lawrence and Davis each hit 10 for the losers.

Mendy Ringel's deuce in the last 5 seconds gave Monticello a 66-64 over Fallsburgh Central. Ronnie Trachtenburg was high scorer with 20 points. Kinsbrunner and Krutman had 15 apiece for Fallsburgh.

The two big guns who'll be at the field house Friday — Ed Knight (19) and Lee Roberts (18) — sparked Ellenville's triumph over Port Jervis. Dave Pencek's 17 points topped the Raiders.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

One hundred twenty-three years of combined service and devotion to high school athletics behind them, they sat there . . . all four . . . mellowed by the march of time . . . solidified in friendships that had survived turbulent days on the battlefields of the DUSO.

We had seen them on unhappier days, when the torch of friendship did not burn so brightly. But tonight they were relaxed, happy and conscious of the gratitude of other peoples who recognized them for the fine gentlemen and excellent coaches they are and have been through the years.

This was the occasion of the NFA football dinner sponsored by Stan Levinson of the Hotel Newburgh and the "Big Five" of the DUSO had been invited to be honored and praised while they were still alive to hear it.

THERE WAS THE MAN FROM ILLINOIS on whose first Kingston High School baseball squad we played—G. Warren Kias, all-time master of DUSO basketball. Beside him sat Jack Hughes, the Beau Brummell of another era, who has piloted Middletown athletics for 31 years. And C. Everett Stevens, a veteran of 33 years at NFA, a suave diplomat, who praised opposing coaches and feared the worst for NFA while hoping the new set of signals would drop from the rival coach's pocket.

And the fourth was the Grey Fox of the Neversink, Al Chase, a 31-year veteran at Port Jervis High.

Only Kias and portly Sam Kalloch of Poughkeepsie are still active in coaching circles. The others had long since been retired to their just reward, the comparative quiet and ease of the athletic director's office. It is a known fact that Kalloch figures to die with his football shoes on, but you wondered why Kingston hasn't installed G. Warren Kias in the lodge of former coaches with Stevens, Hughes and Chase.

It is an honor long overdue this 28-year veteran of Maroon battlefields. It is a reward he richly deserves for those hectic years when he was a one-man coaching staff at KHS. We hope, as do hundreds of others, that Coach Kias becomes strictly an AD, win, lose or draw at the end of the 1954-55 basketball campaign.

Wesley "Bo" Gill, the Newburgh News sports editor who teamed with Levinson to make possible the splendid tribute to the All-DUSO and "Big Five", asked each to recall the highlight of his long career. It was not easy, because in three or more decades incredible things happen in various sports.

THE CROWD WAITED FOR KIAS, the basketball master, to reminisce about the cage exploits of KHS, but he surprised them. A 14-7 victory over then mighty Port Jervis in his first year—1928—was one of his top thrills, he said.

"Today I feel a great sense of pride in the way our athletes went on to make the grade in college," he continued. He meant the Weavers, Maines, Kitsos, Hansens, Bezemers, Scheffels, Koenigs and others in an endless list.

"It has been a great thrill to me, too," he went on, "to see our physical resources develop at Kingston . . . the MJM school, municipal stadium and now the dazzling Kate Walton field house."

Jack Hughes said he had experienced so many thrills at Middletown he couldn't single any one for special mention. Stevens of NFA lauded his corps of assistants as "the best coaching staff in the world" and said the combined records of the Big Five in the DUSO would be hard to match anywhere in the country.

CHASE RECALLED A LONG FORGOTTEN GAME AT Garfield, N. J., as one of his top thrills but feeling like the others, it was the cumulative results of years of victories, defeats, heartaches and thrills that made him happy to attend the dinner.

This was their glorious moment—the Big Five. It was a pleasure to share it with them, at least for one who has shared 25 of those brilliant years with them.

Jackets, Rapp's Win in Y Loop

Frank Secreto Hits 26 Points

Yellow Jackets came from behind with a big second half to nip Skyline, 52-50, and Rapp's Express hit a steady flow of power to defeat J&E Milk Bar, 60-55, in last night's YMCA League games.

Denny Lenehan led Skyline with 18. Ronnie Brandt had 15 and Jim Woods 15.

FRANK SECRETO'S 26-point barrage for the Milk Bar failed to overcome the steady shooting of Rapp's, who led 29-26 at the half at 46-40 at the end of three.

Joe Tomaseskie had 15 points and Phil McCloskey 16 for the winners. Harry La Forge canned 15 for J&E.

Castellani, Mims Even Up

Cleveland, Jan. 12 (AP)—Rocky Castellani, the No. 2 contender for Bobo Olson's middleweight title, meets the No. 3 man, Holly Mims, tonight in a 12-round bout at Cleveland Arena.

Castellani, who now lives in Cleveland, lost to Olson on points in a bout at San Francisco last summer and is now ranked behind Joey Giardello, the No. 1 contender.

Mims, a 25-year-old from Washington, D. C., has never been knocked out and is working on a string of 12 straight bouts without a defeat. Since October, 1952, he has won 11 and fought one draw.

CASTELLANI, 27 years old, has 57 victories on his record, six losses and a draw. Mims' record: 35 victories, 11 losses and five draws.

Bettors favored the Clevelander by 6-5 but there were indications the odds might even off by 10 p. m. (EST) when the bout is scheduled to be televised over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Onteora Central outscored Kerhonkson High from the field, 14-12, last night in a UCAL game at Boiceville. But in the final showdown it was the same old story. Kerhonkson won 44-35 for its fifth win in six starts.

The defeat was the sixth straight for Coach Ed Witko's cagers, who seem to be a year away from the UCAL level.

ONE BAD PERIOD — the second this time—cost the Indians the ball game. They opened up a 12-11 edge in the first quarter but slumped to only two points in the second and trailed 20-14 at the half. There was no catching up.

Ronnie Locke of Onteora and Werner Wustrau of Kerhonkson tied for high scoring honors with 15 apiece. Lou Bolter hit 8 for Onteora. John Mustion hooped 15 for Kerhonkson.

CHESTER HAD a chance to nail down the victory in the last 10 seconds but Joe Arraiz blew two foul shots. The Orange county club led 26-24 at halftime.

Marlboro Central cashed in on three fouls in the final minute of play to edge powerful Chester High, 51-50, last night on the Ulster court.

Trailing until the last minute, Coach Ed McGrath's cagers moved to within a point, 50-49, when Carston Conn converted two fouls. Brooks made it 50-50 with a singleton and Joe Sarra's conversion cinched the game 51-50.

CHESTER HAD a chance to nail down the victory in the last 10 seconds but Joe Arraiz blew two foul shots. The Orange county club led 26-24 at halftime.

Sarra hooped 19 points and Carston Conn hit 15 for Marlboro in the non-conference game. Gillette tied Sarra with 19. Barth hit 10 for Chester.

The Detroit Lions average home crowd during the 1954 NFL season was 54,340. This is 1,487 more than Briggs Stadium's seating capacity.

Onteora Central outscored Kerhonkson High from the field, 14-12, last night in a UCAL game at Boiceville. But in the final showdown it was the same old story. Kerhonkson won 44-35 for its fifth win in six starts.

The defeat was the sixth straight for Coach Ed Witko's cagers, who seem to be a year away from the UCAL level.

ONE BAD PERIOD — the second this time—cost the Indians the ball game. They opened up a 12-11 edge in the first quarter but slumped to only two points in the second and trailed 20-14 at the half. There was no catching up.

Ronnie Locke of Onteora and Werner Wustrau of Kerhonkson tied for high scoring honors with 15 apiece. Lou Bolter hit 8 for Onteora. John Mustion hooped 15 for Kerhonkson.

Jackets, Rapp's Win in Y Loop

Frank Secreto Hits 26 Points

Yellow Jackets came from behind with a big second half to nip Skyline, 52-50, and Rapp's Express hit a steady flow of power to defeat J&E Milk Bar, 60-55, in last night's YMCA League games.

Denny Lenehan led Skyline with 18. Ronnie Brandt had 15 and Jim Woods 15.

FRANK SECRETO'S 26-point barrage for the Milk Bar failed to overcome the steady shooting of Rapp's, who led 29-26 at the half at 46-40 at the end of three.

Joe Tomaseskie had 15 points and Phil McCloskey 16 for the winners. Harry La Forge canned 15 for J&E.

Castellani, Mims Even Up

Cleveland, Jan. 12 (AP)—Rocky Castellani, the No. 2 contender for Bobo Olson's middleweight title, meets the No. 3 man, Holly Mims, tonight in a 12-round bout at Cleveland Arena.

Castellani, who now lives in Cleveland, lost to Olson on points in a bout at San Francisco last summer and is now ranked behind Joey Giardello, the No. 1 contender.

Mims, a 25-year-old from Washington, D. C., has never been knocked out and is working on a string of 12 straight bouts without a defeat. Since October, 1952, he has won 11 and fought one draw.

CASTELLANI, 27 years old, has 57 victories on his record, six losses and a draw. Mims' record: 35 victories, 11 losses and five draws.

Bettors favored the Clevelander by 6-5 but there were indications the odds might even off by 10 p. m. (EST) when the bout is scheduled to be televised over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Bonus Rule to Stir New College Rhubarbs

Five Winners Are Outscored From Field

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

The gents who are yelling foul over college basketball's current free throw rule have a neat package of protest today—with the winners in six major contests last night scoring fewer (or at best, one more) field goals than the losers.

Duke, Yale, Wake Forest, Nebraska, Oklahoma A&M and Niagara were the teams which added to their victory totals without a clear cut verdict from the field.

DUKE DEFEATED Clemson 75-66, but had only a 25-24 field goal edge; Yale picked up its first victory of the season 73-63 over Brown, but was outscored 26-25 from the field; Wake Forest topped Seton Hall 71-63, but trailed the Pirates 23-21 in field goals; Nebraska surprised Kansas State 69-59 with a mere 21-20 field goal edge, and Niagara beat Canisius 68-64, although outshot 24-20.

But the biggest talking point for those protesting the rule was the Aggie-Wichita game. The Cowpokes and Wichita were even-up with 13 field goals apiece —Yet the Aggies won it in a waltz by 16 points, 69-53.

Oklahoma A&M, defending champ in the Missouri Valley, wrapped up the upset of the Shockers, previously unbeaten in the conference, with 43 free throws. The Aggies' high scorer, Mack Carter, had 16 points—all on foul shots.

THE PRESENT collegiate foul rule grants a 1-and-1 stipulation (the shooter gets a second shot if he makes his first on fouls not resulting during a field goal attempt) and awards an automatic pair of free throws for fouls during the final 3 minutes.

North Carolina State, No. 2 team in this week's Associated Press poll, ran up a 105-81 victory over high-scoring Furman. It was easy for the Wolfpack, even without their 6-9 Cliff Dwyer, missing with a virus attack. Ron Shavlik, usually in a double pivot with Dwyer, totaled 26 points as NCS hit 39 of 100 shots.

St. Louis' Billikens set a school record with a 102-82 triumph over Drake, despite Willie Cerf's 31 points. Dick Bouska had 25 and Joe Todd 24 for for the Bills.

ONE SCORING record was missed. Texas Christian's Dick O'Neal had 40 points with 4 minutes remaining, but Texas went into a freeze to protect ex-Longhorn Slater Martin's one-game Southwest Conference mark of 49 and the 6-7 O'Neal wound up with only 42. TCU won it 79-64. O'Neal, a sophomore, did break his own Southwest free throw record, however, with 18. In another Southwest Conference game, Southern Methodist topped Texas A&M 93-68.

Ronnie Mayer scored 31 in Duke's tough one against Clemson and Ed Robinson scored 35 in Yale's Ivy League triumph over Brown. Syracuse, like the Elis, also shook off its losing ways, winning its fourth game by 91-85 over Pitt.

MICKEY GETS ALL SEVENS—As a gesture of appreciation, the state of Oklahoma made a special auto license tag (No. 77-7777) for Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees' outfielder, to match the "7" on his baseball uniform. Mickey, who lives at Commerce, Okla., is shown attaching the plate. (AP Wirephoto)

ABC's 200-Mile Rule in Effect

Milwaukee, Jan. 12 (AP)—Frank K. Baker, secretary of the American Bowling Congress, today denied a published report that the 200-mile rule had been waived for the 1955 ABC tournament to be held at Fort Wayne, Ind., March 28-June 4.

The rule states that teams within a 200-mile radius of the host city must bowl on Monday, Wednesday or Thursday — leaving the weekend dates for the teams that have to travel a greater distance. Baker said that rule will prevail for the coming tournament.

Baker added that 5,300 teams have entered the meet and that there are openings for some 700 more. Entry deadline is Feb. 1.

ABC's 200-Mile Rule in Effect

Milwaukee, Jan. 12 (AP)—Frank K. Baker, secretary of the American Bowling Congress, today denied a published report that the 200-mile rule had been waived for the 1955 ABC tournament to be held at Fort Wayne, Ind., March 28-June 4.

The rule states that teams within a 200-mile radius of the host city must bowl on Monday, Wednesday or Thursday — leaving the weekend dates for the teams that have to travel a greater distance. Baker said that rule will prevail for the coming tournament.

Baker added that 5,300 teams have entered the meet and that there are openings for some 700 more. Entry deadline is Feb. 1.

Nolan Arrested

Mrs. Inez Edna Ward, 27, of Route 3, Kingston, who was injured in the accident, was reported "greatly improved" at Benedictine Hospital where she spent a "comfortable night."

STATE POLICE of the Kingston station, who made the arrest, said both cars were traveling south at a "high rate of speed" when Nolan attempted to pass the car operated by Mrs. Ward. They said Mrs. Ward lost control of her automobile, veering to the east side of the highway, knocking down three guard rail posts and snapping the cable. Her car continued, striking three small trees and turning over.

It was reported by the Ulster county sheriff's office, which investigated the accident, that Mrs. Ward suffered abdominal injuries and lacerations of the nose. Hospital authorities first listed her condition as "serious."

STATE POLICE SAID the Nolan car also went out of control, swinging off the east side of the road a little farther south of the car operated by Mrs. Ward, and coming to rest on property owned by M. Diaz. Nolan claimed no injuries, it was reported.

The owner of the automobile operated by Mrs. Ward, William E. Hollinger of Washington avenue, Saugerties, who was a passenger in the car, was treated by a private physician for lacerations of the nose and forehead and rib fractures, it was reported.

porters later there had been "a frank discussion" of budget problems.

He quoted Harriman as saying that aid to localities would require "substantially more" than 50 million dollars above spending for the current fiscal year—just to continue present programs begun by the Dewey administration.

Van Devander further quoted the governor as saying that the GOP administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had started expansions of state services that would force "substantial increases" in the budget.

Unofficial sources have estimated that as much as 100 million dollars would be added to state spending for the fiscal year that will begin April 1. The budget for the current year is a record $1,143,000,000.

Revenues are expected to remain at or near current levels. By law, the governor must present a balanced budget.

Dinosaur Time

Dinosaurs lived during the Mesozoic era, which extended from about 200,000,000 to 60,000,000 years ago. Man has appeared on earth only during the last million years.

inferior coating which could allow a patient to be burned by the drug as he swallowed it, but the pills were not distributed mainly for another reason, the investigators said—because of "a fundamental disagreement between (American) mission medical officials on the question of whether diagnostic facilities were a prerequisite to dispensing the tablets."

As of last June, the report added, more than 12 million of the pills were "disintegrating in tropical warehouses."

FOA statistics as of last month, included in the congressional report as a footnote—listed about one fourth of the pills as having been administered in Viet Nam, another fourth as on the way to neighboring Cambodia and Laos, and four million pills as recently shipped to Formosa.

The FOA spokesman said the tablets were being safely administered to patients who were told to "swallow and don't chew."

The House group reported the poorly coated pills found their way into the foriegn aid program through "operating weaknesses" involving the FOA, the Food and Drug Administration, the Emergency Procurement Service. It also blamed some "omissions" in official government drug standards and critized the Retort Pharmaceutical Co. of Long Island City, N. Y., which manufactured the pills.

In New York city, a spokesman for the retort company said the tablets were manufactured in accordance with government specifications and that they were tested, accepted and approved by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

"We could not ship any of them until they were accepted, after tests, by the government," the spokesman said. "None of the samples taken by the government was rejected."

He said the tablets were made on the basis of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia, a publication recognized by the Food and Drug Administration as standard for making medicinal preparations.

The spokesman said the shipments were made over a period of time three years ago, and the company does not know under what conditions they were stored in tropical Saigon.

"He has made progress toward the goal set for him by the General Assembly . . . to 'make, by the means most appropriate in his judgment, continuing and unremitting efforts' for the release of the 11 fliers and other UN command personnel still detained.

"The talks in Peiping were 'useful' toward this end. They established a basis upon which further progress can be made."

In London, senior diplomatic officials said the mission apparently has only finished the first step toward winning freedom for men held by the Chinese Reds.

In the United States, Secretary of State Dulles said the United States would be "slow to anger" in facing issues which could upset peace, but the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff and a top Republican senator urged a blockade of Red China if everything else fails.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford said, "it would have a great effect on the Red Chinese and would be the best way to tackle such a problem."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.) a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said a blockade would be dangercus but "I believe to squeeze them economically would be the best sanction to apply."

Talk of a blockade has fallen flat with President Eisenhower and Dulles, who have termed it warlike.

Alecca Reports Auto Was Struck

A two-car collision in Connelly late Monday afternoon has been reported to the Ulster county sheriff's office.

Grimaldi Stars With 22 Points

Flashy Tony Grimaldi, who may some day be another Dick Bezemer, had a big second half as the KSH Jayvees routed Middletown's yearlings, 53-28, in last night's preliminary at Middletown.

The rangy forward unloaded 22 points, most of them in the second half, and picked off 13 rebounds. Bob Smith also helped the Kingston cause with 14 points.

KINGSTON LED 20-15 in the first half but Grimaldi soon tore the game apart and Coach Jack Gilligan was able to clear the bench. And this against a squad that had whipped the Newburgh Jayvees by 10 points.

Merritt led the Middies with 10 points.

Sharman's 37 Pace Celtics to Eastern Lead

(By The Associated Press)

The Boston Celtics—"the Century Kids"—staged another record-shattering performance last night as they bolted into first place in the Eastern Division race of the National Basketball Assn.

The Celts, who have been averaging over 100 points per game this season, outlasted Fort Wayne's Western Division leader 119-110 to take over the top slot in the Eastern section by one percentage point over the Syracuse Nationals.

IN OTHER GAMES the Nats bowed to the Minneapolis Lakers 93-82 and the Milwaukee Hawks turned back the Rochester Royals 93-90.

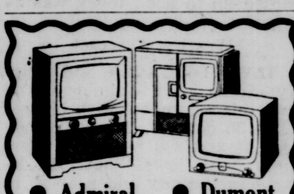

Boston's 119-point outburst broke the Fort Wayne Coliseum scoring record. Sharp-shooting Bill Sharman paced the Celtics' attack with 37 points, hitting effectively with a one-handed set. Sharman connected for 12 field goals and sank 13 of 14 free throws.

In London, senior diplomatic officials said the mission apparently has only finished the first step toward winning freedom for men held by the Chinese Reds.

In the United States, Secretary of State Dulles said the United States would be "slow to anger" in facing issues which could upset peace, but the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff and a top Republican senator urged a blockade of Red China if everything else fails.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford said, "it would have a great effect on the Red Chinese and would be the best way to tackle such a problem."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N. J.) a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said a blockade would be dangerous but "I believe to squeeze them economically would be the best sanction to apply."

Talk of a blockade has fallen flat with President Eisenhower and Dulles, who have termed it warlike.

Alecca Reports Auto Was Struck

A two-car collision in Connelly late Monday afternoon has been reported to the Ulster county sheriff's office.

Police today were seeking someone who threw a stone in The Promise Land—restaurant, that is, on Foxhall avenue.

A window in the front door was broken, officers John Frasch and Clarence Bilyou reported, and the owner of the restaurant reported two bottles of wine and a quart of liquor missing.

Grimaldi Stars With 22 Points

Flashy Tony Grimaldi, who may some day be another Dick Bezemer, had a big second half as the KSH Jayvees routed Middletown's yearlings, 53-28, in last night's preliminary at Middletown.

The rangy forward unloaded 22 points, most of them in the second half, and picked off 13 rebounds. Bob Smith also helped the Kingston cause with 14 points.

KINGSTON LED 20-15 in the first half but Grimaldi soon tore the game apart and Coach Jack Gilligan was able to clear the bench. And this against a squad that had whipped the Newburgh Jayvees by 10 points.

Merritt led the Middies with 10 points.

Sharman's 37 Pace Celtics to Eastern Lead

(By The Associated Press)

The Boston Celtics—"the Century Kids"—staged another record-shattering performance last night as they bolted into first place in the Eastern Division race of the National Basketball Assn.

The Celts, who have been averaging over 100 points per game this season, outlasted Fort Wayne's Western Division leader 119-110 to take over the top slot in the Eastern section by one percentage point over the Syracuse Nationals.

IN OTHER GAMES the Nats bowed to the Minneapolis Lakers 93-82 and the Milwaukee Hawks turned back the Rochester Royals 93-90.

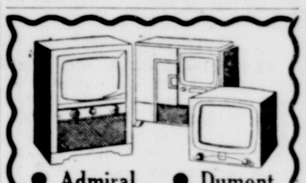

Boston's 119-point outburst broke the Fort Wayne Coliseum scoring record. Sharp-shooting Bill Sharman paced the Celtics' attack with 37 points, hitting effectively with a one-handed set. Sharman connected for 12 field goals and sank 13 of 14 free throws.

Two Air Crashes Mar Maneuvers

Sewart Air Force Base, Tenn., Jan. 12 (AP)—Engine blazes in two C119 flying boxcars marred a paratrooper airlift to Alaska yesterday with a flaming crash here and a forced landing in Montana.

A total of 68 paratroopers and three airmen parachuted to safety from the two planes, but two crewmen of the plane which crashed—presumably the pilot and co-pilot—still were missing today as air force investigators poked through the smoking wreckage.

Names of the missing men were not released.

Thirty-five infantrymen and three crewmen jumped when an engine burst into flames shortly after the twin-engine craft took off here.

HOURS EARLIER, 33 paratroopers used their chutes when an engine caught fire on their plane near Miles City, Mont. Pilot-Capt. T. G. Johnson of Sewart AFB then guided the plane to the Miles City Airport without incident.

The two boxcars were part of a flight of 80 ferrying 3,000 airborne troops from Ft. Campbell, Ky., to Alaska for operation Snowbird, a winter exercise. Paratroopers involved in both jumps were members of the 503rd Airborne Infantry Regiment.

THE CRASH SCENE here was about three miles from the base. Witnesses said the plane spun nose-first into the earth, then burst into "a great mushroom of fire and smoke."

Second Lt. James Reynolds, Melbourne, Fla., platoon leader of the paratroopers aboard, said he thought it was a drill when the crew chief ordered them to prepare to jump.

Reynolds said the men followed briefing instructions exactly and 30 seconds later the passenger compartment was empty.

"I don't know what happened to the pilot, but he did a good job. He gave us all the time we needed..."

The troopers bailed out at 8,000 feet. Most landed on the base.

Tompkins Is Counsel

Albany, Jan. 12 (AP)—Former Sen. Bernard Tompkins of Queens today was appointed counsel to the joint legislative committee to study charitable and philanthropic agencies and organizations. He served as the committee's chairman in the last Legislature. The appointment was announced by GOP Sen. Edward P. Larkin of Floral Park, the new chairman. He did not disclose the salary.

Now! A FUEL OIL THAT CLEANS AS IT BURNS

"Twin-Action" Mobilheat!

Remarkable New Additive — result of years of research — gives Mobilheat a new cleaning action. Now, it not only burns hot as ever, but cleans as it burns!

Helps Prevent Main Cause of Burner Troubles — Sediment, long a major source of trouble in burner systems, is reduced to a minor cause so long as you use twin-action Mobilheat.

Helps Clean Out Accumulated Sediment — Mobilheat's twin action gradually cleans out sediment already present.

Fewer Service Calls — Now, burner shutdowns due to screen, filter and nozzle plugging are greatly minimized. Result — fewer service calls.
